Voters raise taxes to improve public safety

$2.5 million referendum garners 2-1 approval

By KENNETH PATCHEN
Staff Reporter

Antioch voters passed a $2.5 million referendum initiative Tuesday, March 17 to construct a new police station, a new fire substation, and to purchase fire safety equipment.

The vote passed by an almost two to one vote.

Unofficial vote totals on election night were 726 (62.8 percent) votes in favor and 430 (37.2 percent) votes against the proposal to issue general obligation bonds.

Antioch will build the new fire substation east of the Wisconsin Central Railroad tracks and the new police station in downtown Antioch. Three acres on Deep Lake Road have been donated to the Fire Protection District for a substation. The cost of the new fire station will be paid by the First Fire Protection District and the Village of Antioch.

"One fifth of current calls are already on the east side of the tracks," Mayor Marilyn Shineflug said at a Feb. 23 public information meeting about the referendum. The substation is intended to provide a first response to east side fire calls.

The new police station will be built on land now owned by the village on Orchard Street just east of the existing fire station.

"It would be a brick construction," said Village Administrator Tim Wells at the public information meeting.

The new police station will be two stories and will be 65 feet by 125 feet. The design anticipates 25 to 30 police officers at some future time. He said that the referendum was for bricks and mortar only and did not include any personnel costs.

The police station will contain a cell block that complies with federal law. Three cells will accommodate male prisoners, plus one cell for women, and a juvenile facility. The public would be separated from any possible encounters with prisoners.

In response to questions about construction schedule, Wells said that he thought the Village would move quickly to contract for a design for the building. He said that the village would want to be in the new building 18 months after the vote.

Plans for the fire substation are further along than for the police department.

"The design of this building has been done for about a year," Wells said.

The station will have an apparatus bay for four trucks, a day room, a dining room and kitchen, a communications area, lobby, offices for future personnel, a parking lot and drive area, and a place to test fire pumps. Pumps are now tested in Gurnee.

The fire safety costs of the referendum initiative are estimated to be $1 to $1.2 million. Half of the money is for the substation and half for two pieces of equipment.

Waukegan, Antioch congregations cross county to worship together

By KENNETH PATCHEN
Staff Reporter

Having spent the past two years working and traveling together, Waukegan's The Sign of the Dove church and Chain of Lakes Community Bible Church held their first "Brothers and Sisters in Christ family fellowship" gathering March 15 to sing, learn, and eat together.

The evening celebration of their mutual awareness of God's love is the first of alternating monthly meetings in one another's church buildings.

Rev. Harry Stackhouse, of the Dove, spoke to about 300 congregants in the packed gymnasium of the Community Bible Church. He took his lesson from John 15:1-11. The title of his lesson was "I'm Just a Branch."

Sunday night, however, began two years ago. The Community Bible

Antioch Police and Lake County Sheriffs have cooperated in the arrest of two people in connection with veterinary clinic burglaries in an unincorporated area near Antioch.

Lake County Sheriff Gary Del Re has announced the Feb. 17, 1998 arrest of Nathaniel Gonzalez, 19, of Paletine, in connection with the March 19 and June 18, 1996 burglaries near Antioch. Due to an ongoing investigation, details of the arrest were just made public.

The Sheriff's office reported that investigators received a tip in December, 1997 that Gregory Patzer, 19, of Crystal Lake, who was incarcerated in the Lake County Jail since August 29, 1997 on a Lake Zurich burglary charge, had been receiving the animal tranquilizer Ketamine Hydrochloride in an evaporated form

Martini savors public confidence

Antioch County Board Member Judy Martini anxiously checks results in her primary election Tuesday night. The outcome was unknown until the final two precincts were counted. Currently, Martini is not facing a Democratic challenger in November.—Photo by Lynn Gunnarson Dahlstrom

Incumbent takes edge in three-way county board race

Judy Martini spent a pensive election night between moments of joy and sadness as results in the Dist. 1 county board primary trickled in.

The final tally was not obvious until the last two precincts had been counted—then it was tears of joy.

"I can't believe it. How sweet it is," she said amidst tears. "In all the time I have been in office, I have always worked hard to represent the people and the people remembered it."

Martini defeated challenger Linda Pedersen, 1,767 to 1,441. Mike Mortensen had 181 votes. As Martini expected, Pedersen defeated her in precincts within the village limits of Antioch where she is well-known and respected. Martini took all Antioch township precincts.

"The endorsement of the people means more than the endorsement of any public officials or newspapers," Martini said. "My re-election sends a message to the old guard that the voters don't like machine politics."

Martini commended her primary opponent Pedersen for running a clean campaign.

"She is a nice lady. I really hope

Tree prune expected to save trees

By KENNETH PATCHEN
Staff Reporter

Village officials have trimmed Main Street honey locust trees to maximize the tree's chances for survival during construction of sidewalks and curbs a year from now.

Trimming work was undertaken by professional tree care personnel after studies by consultants to the village.

"Because we are a Tree City USA, we have taken every possible means to protect the trees," said Claude LeMere, village community development director. "We would not want to jeopardize our status."

"Yes. The trimming at this point looks very dramatic," LeMere said.

Village officials have received telephone calls from a few residents who are upset about the change in the size of the branch area of honey locust trees that line Main Street. The effect on the appearance of the street is to show more open sky and the top structures of the buildings.

Village development officials had postponed, for one year, the start of construction of sidewalk, and curb and gutter improvements in the downtown business district. The improvements are now scheduled to start in spring, 1999.

Antioch has been guided in the tree trimming program by Applied Ecological Services, Inc. of Broadhead, Wisconsin. Professional ecologists have discussed ways to assure that trees will survive the proposed sidewalk project.

Dr. John L. Larson told Antioch that removal of about one third of the branches will be necessary to increase the probability that trees would survive 1999 construction activities.

Larson stated, "During construction, stress to and damage to some roots is unavoidable. By reducing a portion of the above ground stem structure, the tree root system will have to maintain a reduced nutrient load, reduced evapotranspiration rate, and reduced wind load, which will help the trees to survive."

Trimming trees in spring, 1998 will allow the trees to recover from that activity before new stress is placed on the roots by the sidewalk reconstruction project.

"Allowing the trees one full growing season to recover from the trimming should greatly improve the likelihood of the honey locust surviving street construction activities," said Larson.

The village also expects to improve the conditions in which the trees currently exist during the reconstruction project.

"We are enlarging the openings around the trees with the new sidewalk program so they will get more moisture," said LeMere. New tree grates will permit a 25 percent larger ground surface area for each tree.

LeMere said that trees that do not survive this spring's trimming would not have survived the root trauma expected with the sidewalk program. Any trees that die will be replaced when new sidewalks are installed in 1999.

"We're giving them the best chance of survival," LeMere said.

BURGLARS: Police charge two in vet drug thefts

through inmate mail.

The Sheriff's investigation of the burglaries is continuing since a third offender is believed to have been involved. However, between the two existing suspects, Gonzalez and Patzer, police and sheriffs investigators were able to solve 12 animal clinic burglaries in Lake and Cook County.

Ketamine Hydrochloride is also known as Ketacete, Special K, Ket, K, and Vitamin K. Ketamine is an anesthetic used by Veterinarians.

Stolen from the Lakes Animal Clinic, 222 West Route 173, Antioch, were animal tranquilizers known as Ketamine, Ketaset, Telazol and Diazepam.

"It's a very dangerous drug," said Antioch Police Chief Charles Watkins of Ketamine when he released information about the arrests. "It's a very high powered drug."

"If you snort too much, you can literally put yourself to sleep permanently," he said.

Second suspect Patzer already has been sentenced to four years in incarceration with the Illinois Department of Corrections for Lake Zurich animal clinic burglaries in 1997.

Gonzalez now is in the custody of the Lake County Jail and remanded on a $100,000 bond. His next court date is March 26 for pretrial motions.

Antioch Police Officers investigated break-ins at the Lakes Animal Clinic on Aug. 21, Oct. 5, and Oct. 21, 1996. In August, animal care personnel noticed that the northeast door to the clinic had been kicked open. Police reported that there were sixteen 10 ml vials of Ketaset taken from the clinic at that time.

In early October, there was another burglary at the Lakes Animal Clinic. Burglars broke into the building by prying open the rear door on the south side of the building. Taken in that burglary were eight 10 ml vials of Diazepam, twelve 10 ml vials of Ketamine, and seven 5 ml vials of Telazol.

Later in October, a third burglary occurred. The same door broken earlier in the month was used. Although a careful inspection was made, nothing was missing from the clinic.

Detectives James Ruth and Craig

Somerville were involved in the investigation for the Antioch Police Department. The Antioch officers helped build the chain of evidence that led to the arrest of Gonzalez. They also worked with the Cook County Sheriffs Department on other aspects of the case.

Lake Zurich investigator Mike Parlborg reported last September that Patzer had been picked up by Kildeer Police at 6:45 a.m. August 29, 1997 after being observed standing outside the pay telephone booth at an Amoco Gas Station on Rand Road.

Police believed Patzer had broken a window of the All Creatures Animal Hospital at 2:06 a.m. earlier that morning and was at the telephone calling for a ride after the getaway car was towed away, authorities said.

Animal hospital break-ins in the area had followed a similar pattern. The suspects would break a window at an animal hospital and then leave to see if any patrol officers would arrive, according to Parlborg. If they did not, or once they left, the suspects would return, enter through the broken window, take vials of Ketamine and sometimes other valuables, and leave through the front door.

This was a similar pattern for area robberies including Barrington, Palatine, McHenry, Crystal Lake, Marengo, Itasca and Bolingbrook, Parlborg said.

Parlborg said that the suspects used the tranquilizer for their own personal use but also sold some of it at rave parties.

Patzer was indicted by a Lake County grand jury on Sept. 10, 1997 on charges filed by the Lake Zurich Police Department.

Internet information sources report that Ketamine is used in the rave and club scene, especially in Europe. It may also be mixed with other drugs such as heroin, coke, or ecstasy. It is reported that any combination of drugs with Ketamine is extremely dangerous with minimal psychedelic value.

This investigation is continuing by Sheriff's investigators. Persons who may have information about this case are asked to contact the Criminal Investigations Division at 847-360-5850.

Celebrate downtown at ceremonies

There are four new business grand opening ceremonies this weekend. Ceremonies are scheduled throughout the morning. Village and Chamber officials will be present to cut the ribbons and welcome each business to the community.

Something Sweet will open at 9:30 a.m. next to the PM&L Theater. New owners at 879 Main Street are Michele Michel and Sandra Lebolt.

At 10:30 a.m., ceremonies will be at Avanti Blinds & Drapery, 482 Orchard Street. The new owner is Kathy Witek and she is helped by Sandy Hessler.

OUR TOWN

Ken Patchen

Dance Pounds Away, 496 Orchard Street, will open at 10:30 a.m. There are three owners: Lory Charney, Debra Lopez, and Josella Boudreau.

The fourth new business to open, at 11 a.m., will be Shop and Save, at 579 West Route 173. The owner is Michael Aberle and the manager is Kim Arseneau.

The ceremonies usually last several minutes.

Friday and Saturday night, the south gymnasium of Antioch Community High School disappeared. Parents and volunteers lowered the ceiling, installed new walls, filled the room with tables and plants, created three bandstands, and offered up Swing Street Cafe '98 for community residents.

Antioch students create great music across the scale of musical interests. One O'Clock Jump, Take Five, Brother Loves Traveling Salvation Show, The Flintstones theme song, the Too Fat Polka, YMCA, and Miss Saigon show tunes are all there. The singers, jazz band, and orchestra are able to provide a fabulous night out. The food was wonderful and the table service was prompt.

John Ollisar, Mathew Kastor, and Keith Cox present a fabulous evening of music. To know Antioch, you should be there.

AMPS Parents are so good for the school and Antioch. Yes, they did the chicken dance.

WORSHIP: Congregations come together to serve each other, God

Church food pantry had more than people were coming to use. It was decided that another location might better be able to distribute the food.

"It started with (Elder Board member) Jim Savage taking a load of food over," said Dave Wennstrom, a member of the Community Bible Church. "(Savage) found the people over there to be so delightful and friendly that he said, 'We need to get together with these guys.'"

They did just that.

In the course of a few Saturday morning fellowship events, men in the Community Bible Church learned the Waukegan area ministry on Tenth Street had need for remodeling work on a building they had bought to use as their church. Insulation installation, a raised platform, and other remodeling work was needed in the 1917 building.

Stackhouse said that men from each congregation worked for five evenings to improve the building as a worship center. The Community Bible Church has a wealth of tradesman with skills that could help their building.

"They worked side-by-side," he said. "We put labor and love together."

"It was just a powerful time," Stackhouse said.

The initial, practical result was a saving on energy costs. Wennstrom said, "We didn't get it all done, but it saved $2,500 a month on their heating bill for the insulation work and the kind of work that was happening."

"It also created a worshipful, sanctuary kind of feeling in there. If you go over there now, it's a lot different than it was two years ago."

"We kept getting together," said Wennstrom, "and then, we decided that we would go to Promise Keepers. So, we got two buses and had 110 duce on the vine belongs to God and not the branches."

"I'm a branch," he said.

"One of the first things that will be produced by hooking up to the vine of Jesus Christ, as a branch, is going to be love."

"The next thing that is going to come from this produce is going to be joy. Now, I know that everybody in here wants some joy. Jesus is the source of the joy."

"I'm just a branch. And my job, like your job, is this, and this alone: become the best branch that I can be."

"Give the Lord a handclap," Stackhouse said at the end.

After the blessing for the food they were to receive, Community Bible Church Associate Pastor Paul McMinimy said, "This (food) is for people who know they need a savior."

He also urged everyone to go lightly on their helpings so that all could be served. "Pot luck means: leave something in the pot."

He added, "Enjoy. Enjoy each other."

Prior to the lesson, Community Bible Church led the assembled group in song. They sang a special favorite of Stackhouse written by Lynn DeShazo (©1982 by Integrity's Hosanna! Music of Mobile, Alabama).

He said that the people of their churches have tried to have real relationships. "That's the most significant thing—that we have genuine love for one another."

Dave Wennstrom expressed a somewhat similar sentiment. "We just really have a good time all the way around."

"If you love the Lord, if you've accepted Christ as your savior, that's all you need. Let's rejoice together and have a good time together," he said.

And, they did.

Talking Health

by Dr. Scott Reiser, D.C.

THE "DRUG-FREE" MEDICINE

Chiropractic is often called "drug-free medicine" because chiropractors do not rely on prescription medicines to treat disease. The chiropractic view of health and the human body is very different from the view held by allopathic doctors who view the body as a relatively defenseless organism besieged by armies of antagonistic bacteria and viruses. In this view, the way to defend the body from such intrusion is to find weapons to kill the invaders. The problems with this approach are well-known—the evolution of strains of drug-resistant bacteria ("Super Bugs") and viruses which baffle medical understanding and technology.

Chiropractors recognize disease as a process. Everyone is exposed to bacterial and viral invasion, but not everyone gets sick because the body has a complex system of resistance to disease. The organism will resist infection and remain healthy if the immune system, the body's natural defense mechanism, can be kept strong. Chiropractic treatments strengthen the immune system through natural means and enable the body to heal itself.

Young adult author visits AUGS

Author Lurlene McDaniel will visit Antioch Upper Grade School Thursday, March 26.

McDaniel is the author of 40 novels about young adults who face life-threatening illnesses.

"They are powerful, inspirational stories about courage, love, and strength in the face of overwhelming trauma," stated Jan Annes, director of the school learning center.

"In addition to describing her novels, she will also discuss the writing process for students," she stated.

"Students are being encouraged to prepare for her visit by reading her books and thinking of questions to ask when she visits," stated Annes.

Funds to pay for the visit were provided by the Parent-Teacher-Student Organization. Money raised from book fairs was used to defray expenses.

McDaniel's books have been made available for sale at 40% discount. She will be available to autograph them.

McDaniel has won several awards for her books. In addition to her novels, Lurlene has written radio and television scripts, advertising copy, and a magazine column. This is the second consecutive year that AUGS will host a visiting author.

"Everyone looks forward to an inspiring experience," Annes stated.

Catherine, Channel lake studies need volunteers

By KENNETH PATCHEN
Staff Reporter

Eight volunteers to help the U.S. Geological Survey conduct clean water studies of Lake Catherine and Channel Lake are needed. Property owners on the two lakes are needed who are willing to provide ground water sampling locations.

A meeting has been scheduled for March 24 at St. Stephen Lutheran Church, 1155 Hillside Avenue, at 7:30 p.m. to discuss the study and the need for volunteers.

Robert T. Kay, a Hydrologist with the Water Resources Division of the U.S. Geological Survey, will be present to discuss the clean water lake study and future planning. The study is funded by a grant through the Fox Waterway Agency.

"They'll be looking for locations to install ground water monitoring wells," said Carol Jonites, of United Homeowners Associations of Unincorporated Antioch.

"It's essential that we find locations to help improve water quality on Lake Catherine and Channel Lake," said County Board representative Judy Martini (Dist. 1-Antioch).

"And, I'm volunteering for one location," said Martini.

The Geological Survey will drill a hole in the ground from which they can take water samples.

"Our plan is to install the wells in April, 1998, use them for weekly monitoring of water levels and quarterly monitoring of water quality until May, 1999," said Kay in a letter to Martini.

"The data obtained from these wells will enable the USGS to determine the amount of water, nitrogen, and phosphorous flowing from ground water into the lakes," Kay said.

Monitoring wells are made of PVC pipe, 8 inches in diameter, and will be placed from 15 to 40 feet deep.

"The exact location of the well, and the conditions for their installation and removal would be subject to the property owner's approval," Kay told Martini.

People willing to participate in the studies are invited to the meeting, or they may call Kay at 815-756-9207.

"I wish people would come from around the lakes," said Jonites. "It is open to the public."

Come and get it

With today's fast food market made so readily available, it's easy to see why more and more people are taking the family dinner hour to a local eatery. It's not that moms have such a distaste for cooking, with today's modern conveniences providing a decent meal really isn't all that hard. What every mom in this great "U. S. of A" would greatly appreciate though, is a little input from the other three-fourths of the family members.

There is nothing more irritating than slaving over a beeping microwave all after noon then, to be greeted with "I don't like that" or "Didn't we just have that?" Or the ever popular "Why don't you ever cook anything good?" Yes family, we moms purposely waste an entire afternoon preparing a meal you will not eat.

Do you think we enjoy this part of the drudgery called "housework?" Do you think we pour over magazine pages and cook books because we enjoy watching Martha Stewart see us grimace at the thought of serving our family capers. And, exactly what the heck is a caper anyway? How many cooking shows do we find ourselves viewing on the PBS channel, searching for the perfect family meal that all members of the family will eat? It's impossible. This one doesn't like onions, this one gags on celery, and you always have one who refuses to come near the table if there is even a hint of peas anywhere to be found.

So, we try to take the diplomatic approach and inquire as to what the family would like for dinner—to which we are given the monotone response "I don't know," which moms interpret to mean "hot dogs and beans." Wouldn't it be nice if over the morning paper hubby would proclaim, "Dear, I would like lasagna, garlic bread and salad tonight for dinner." Wives everywhere would personally whip up a batch of fresh lasagna noodles and start kneading the bread dough. This is all we want. This is all we ask for. A suggestion, a hint, a glimmer as to what you might eat

JINGLE FROM PRINGLE

without curling up your nose when we put it in front of you. Is this too much to ask for?

Most men feel that if you aren't feeding your children a heaping plate of roast beef, mashed potatoes and corn every night, they will get scurvy. My experience has been these are the nights, before the last dinner dish is even dried and put away, those same children will be walking into the kitchen asking if it's time for their bed time snack. Granted it's only 5:30 p.m. but they did work up an appetite pushing all that good nutrition food around their dinner plate. Wouldn't it be rewarding to serve up a nice baked quiche without hearing hubby grumble about eggs for dinner, junior saying he's eating at the neighbors and the baby expressing his disgust by throwing it on the floor where Rover would scarf it down, only to run for his water dish and then hack it up all over again.

So, it's easy to see why more and more moms head to Mickey D's or Taco Time for chow. Everyone can order what they want, no after meal clean up, and if you are lucky, there may be the added bonus of a play area where the baby can pick up every germ imaginable.

So, the meal time dilemma will continue on as long as there is a meal time. So, the next time you find yourself sitting at a perfectly set dinner table, complete with soup, salad, entree, side dishes and dessert, all alone, make a mental note to call your stock broker and invest heavily in pork and beans and hot dogs.

And so goes another, "Jingle from Pringle."

Readers with information for "Jingle from Pringle" should call Lynn Pringle at 395-6364.

On The Home Front

with
Larry Fales, GRI
Broker/Owner

THE DOMINO EFFECT

Timing can sometimes be difficult if you have to sell a home before you can buy another one. Most people need the equity from the sale of their first home for the down payment on the new house. If your present home goes on the market first, you may be concerned that it will sell before you find the one you want to buy. If you find the perfect home before your present home is under contract, the sellers may be reluctant to accept your offer, and you may be too nervous to sign a contract.

It is a good idea to sit down with a good Realtor for some professional advice before you begin your search. It will probably be necessary to be flexible on the closing date because it is usually easier to find a home that you want to buy than to sell your present home. If you have found the house you want, you can ask the lender about arranging a short-term bridge loan that can make it possible for you.

"NOBODY IN THE WORLD SELLS MORE REAL ESTATE THAN RE/MAX...

At today's Opening General Session of the 25th Anniversary RE/MAX International Convention in Las Vegas, Chairman of the Board, Dave Uniger revealed the results of an audit by Arthur Andersen confirming that members of the RE/MAX organization in North America alone handled more than 1 million transaction sides in 1997 — more than any other real estate network in the world.

Regional title just a start

By STEVE PETERSON
Staff Reporter

Three straight times, they battled opponents into overtime in tense post-season contests.

Antioch's third time was not the charm as the Sequoits bowed out with a 40-37 loss to Waukegan in the sectional semifinals.

The Sequoits lose only one senior in their starting line-up, so hope springs internal that this group will be back at this level.

Antioch (18-11) can look forward to two more years of the skills of Don Lackey (19 points); another year from Brian Soldano and three more from frosh Eric White.

Senior Chris Groth was held to four points as Jermaine Lewis shut him down in the 36 minute struggle. Yet, he almost gave the Sequoits the chance at sectional favorite Zion-Benton. He scored what appeared to be a go-ahead field goal with eight seconds left. A charge call gave Waukegan the last shot, which it never got off.

The call will be discussed in Antioch for years to come.

"What official will make that call to determine the game. Mike Nielsen gets fouled at the other end and they did not call it. I don't like having three officials. Eight seconds were left - that was a big momentum swing," said ACHS coach Jeff Dresser.

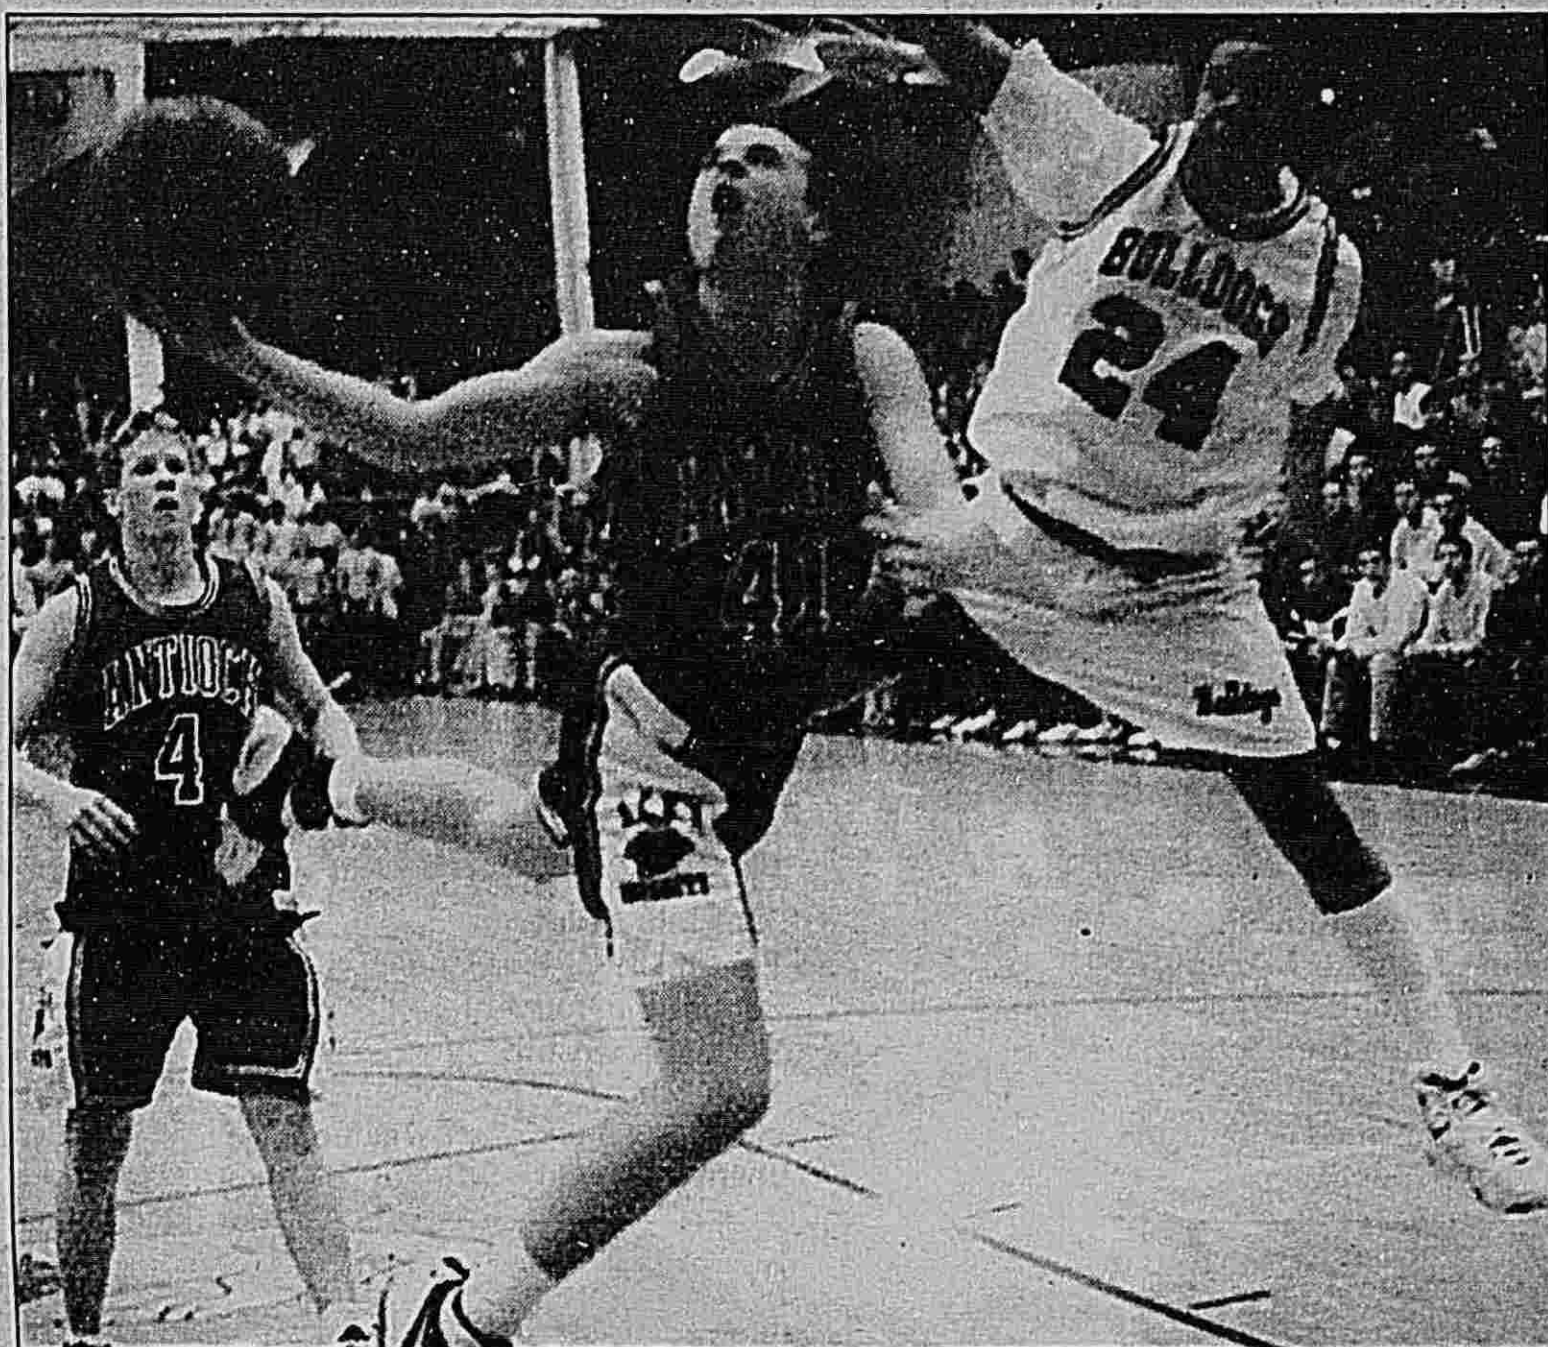

There were more positives that one controversial call cannot erase.

"I thought we accomplished a lot this year. Our goal was to go a game or two farther, but I am happy with the young kids we have had. We played to our potential," said Dresser.

Then there was Lackey.

"Don played a very good game. He played with a lot of confidence for a sophomore. I thought we had a mismatch with our forwards against theirs. White may be a year away. We had a lot of put-backs. We were active on the offensive boards. That is what you have to do against a team like Waukegan which jumps so well," said Dresser.

"With a sophomore, two juniors and a freshmen, we handled the pressure well. In a game like this, it was the little things," said Dresser.

Sophomore guard Quinn Gooch handled the pressure of Waukegan's trapping defenses.

"We tried to go inside and throw it back to the weak side," said Dresser of second-half strategy.

Dominique Jones played despite aggravating a back injury and led the winners with 13 points. His missed free throw in the closing seconds of regulation gave ACHS hope. Dennis Shellie chipped in with eight and Kenyon Edwards, who came back from injury for the post-season, had seven.

"It was one of those basketball games when our kids were hyped up to play. We may have gotten here too early. The bottom line is the win counts more than anything else. We tried to do some things in the fourth quarter to counteract what Antioch was doing. We wanted to attack the ball on offense as well as defense," said Waukegan coach Lloyd Batts.

"With the match-up zone, they could not get the ball inside," he said. The intense zone defense which promoted wins over Lake Zurich and Warren worked again Wednesday. A match-up version was used in the final minutes.

Antioch rallied from a seven-point deficit to force a 35-35 tie on a basket by Lackey. Groth drove to the basket after a turnover, but then the charge call was made. The final chance in regulation came by Waukegan with four seconds left, but it did not materialize.

Lackey hit a 16-footer to begin the overtime, but Waukegan scored the next five points. Edwards hit a three-point play and senior Wesley Simpson, much like as he did against Warren, hit two clutch free throws with :32 left.

ACHS did not get a shot off on its last three possessions.

"Winning a regional for these seniors and having an opportunity to play in a sectional final - they are showing the community they need to come out and support them," said Batts.

Youth, though, will mature and someday soon Antioch may have its chance to play the second Friday in March.

Three-point marksmanship: Groth made 13-of-15 to lead all sectional final qualifiers. He just missed a chance for 14. Lackey had seven, and qualified in a shootout.

Lipps-Ward tandem back for ACHS netters

By STEVE PETERSON
Staff Reporter

One or possibly two doubles teams are fairly established, but there is much competition for several other Antioch High tennis team positions.

Erik Lipps and Kevin Ward are familiar faces for ACHS tennis. The two seniors, are back as the probable top doubles team.

"Erik is coming along well and is working on his skills. And they both know each other well since they are friends. That offsets some of the early practice time jitters. They both know what each other is going to do," said ACHS coach Bryan Plinske.

Senior Andrew Dorhmann and Jeremy Jones may comprise the other doubles slot. Dorhmann is a basketball player while Jones plays football as well.

Making the step up from junior varsity or freshmen competition include Gary Kidric, Steve Arendas, senior Sebastian Andino and several others waiting in the wings.

In singles, J. J. Edwards and Joe Kohler, a senior and a junior, are leading for the two positions. Both are power hitters.

"Edwards was No. 2 last year, and I don't see anyone beating him out for No. 1 this year," said Plinske.

Dan Clarke, a junior new to tennis, is also looking to contribute.

Some 36 hopefuls tried out for the squad this year, which will have 26 players. ACHS was 8-8 in duals last year.

"As always, our goal is to crack the top four of the North Suburban Conference, which means beating either Libertyville or Warren. But Zion-Benton and Mundelein are also huge matches for us," said Plinske.

The Sequoits start on the road at Wheeling's tournament April 4. They spend much of the season as road warriors.

"The varsity schedule is pretty much on-the-road. It does build a lot of team unity," said Plinske.

Rams wrestlers recognized

Grayslake High School wrestling team members were recognized at a post-season awards ceremony.

Most improved wrestler was shared by Luke Day and Chris Roberts.

Vince Corraera and Vince Chebny won most valuable wrestler.

The Brutally Aggressive Guy (or Girl) Uninhibited by Adversity (B.A.G.U.A.) award went to Nicole Stewart and Wes Anderson.

Troy Hudspeth won the iron-man award.

Andy Hamelet won the sportsmanship honor.

Team accomplishments included regional and Fox Valley Conference titles. Anderson wrestled half the season, but finished sixth in the state at 215 pounds.

Grayslake beat Grant but lost to Rockford East in post-season dual team competition.

Legislators learn global reach of libraries

County representatives demonstrate 'local touch' to legislators

By KENNETH PATCHEN
Staff Reporter

Lake Villa, Libertyville, and Vernon Hills library officials met with legislators to acquaint them with issues of importance to library professionals.

Lake Villa Public Library District officials at the breakfast meeting were Richard Wallens and Paul Kaplan.

Representing Libertyville's Cook Memorial Public Library District at the meeting was Don Hook.

The Vernon (Hills) Area Public Library District was represented by Allen Meyer and Michelle Parrini.

Legislators representing communities throughout the northern suburbs attended the legislative breakfast sponsored by the North Suburban Library System in Wheeling. Library directors, trustees, and staff members were invited. Area library professionals meet with state Senator Terry Link (Dist. 30-D).

Robert Lyons, president of the North Suburban Library System Board, and Kathy Balcolm, president of the Illinois Library Association, spoke to 73 people at the annual event.

Balcolm spoke about the 'global reach' and 'local touch' of libraries. Libraries connect even the smallest cities and towns with the rest of the world through books, magazines, videos, and computer resources. They are also a vital part of everyday life in their communities, according to Balcolm.

The North Suburban Library System is an organization of over 600 academic, public, school and special libraries in the north suburban area of Cook County and communities in Kane, Lake, and McHenry Counties. It is one of 12 library systems in Illinois, funded through the Illinois State Library, a division of the Office of Secretary of the State, George Ryan.

These Cats can swim

Libertyville's Wildcat Swim Club has hit an all-time high in popularity and level of competition due to its fun, athletic atmosphere

By BRENDAN O'NEILL
Sports Editor

It seems that every youngster loves to swim. They just plain have fun in the water playing swimming, diving and goofing off. But a group of young swimmers in Libertyville are taking that fun and love of swimming to a new level. They are practicing relentlessly. They are honing their skills. They are enjoying themselves and making long-lasting relationships. They are competing.

The Libertyville Wildcat Swim Club allows children of all ages and abilities to compete in a well-organized, well-coached, and successful swim program that continues to grow above and beyond expectations.

The program is currently celebrating its 25th anniversary as a Libertyville-based swim club. With 25 years of swimming fun and competition behind them, the current crop of Wildcats is pushing forward to elevate the level of competition, and maintain the level of fun.

"This year we're competing in 58 individual events and 12 relays at the Junior Olympics," said head coach Dan Tucker. "Last year we only sent 30 individuals and three relays. It's our largest representation ever."

The swim club is made up of mostly Libertyville residents, but some of the kids come from Grayslake, Gurnee, Mundelein, Vernon Hills, and other neighboring towns, according to Tucker.

The team has kids from ages six through 17 swimming during the school year, and that range is extended in the summer months when swimmers come home from college and want to compete in the pool.

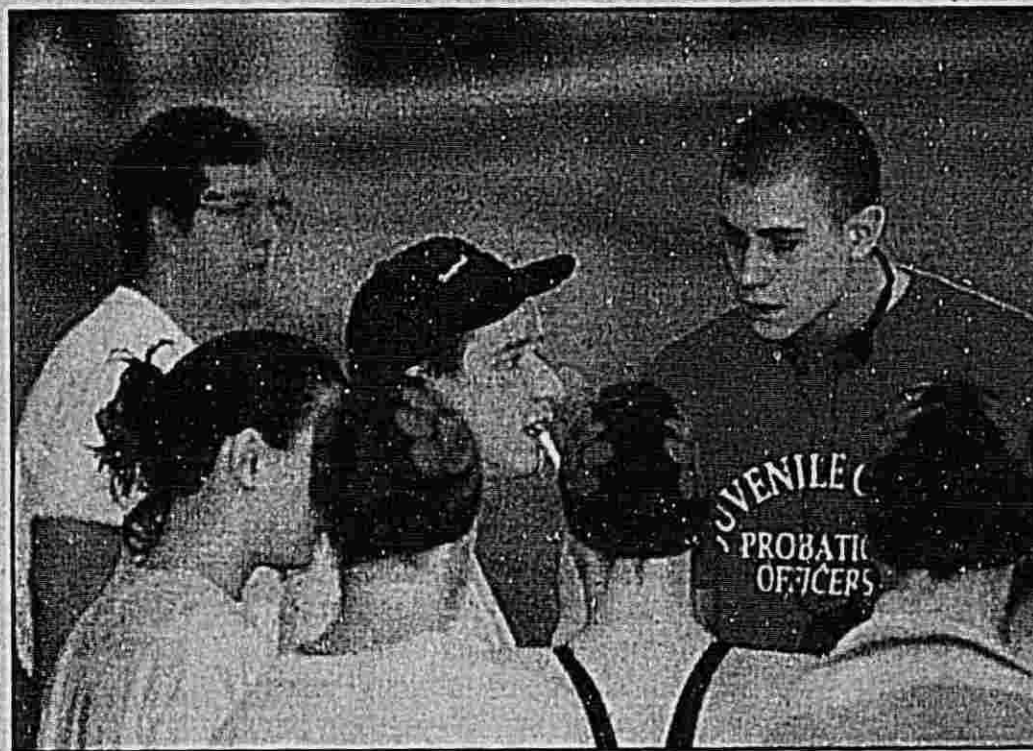

"In the summer we have a lot of college kids," said Tucker. "We have a lot of kids who swam with the club in high school who are now in college and come back to swim in the summer."

The Wildcat Swim Club is an extension of the 'Learn to Swim' program at the high school, which teaches kids of all ages to swim. The program has seven levels of instruction, and when a swimmer reaches the fifth level, he/she is eligible to compete in the swim club.

This grouping together of the two programs has undoubtedly helped with the level of popularity the club.

"There seems to be a really strong interest in the program," said Tucker. "Kids are utilizing the competitive nature of the team for other sports. We are almost turning kids away (because of the immense popularity)."

The swim club currently has 160 participants, and also has a pre-teen program to augment the existing ones.

"We've had the pre-teen program for about four years. It is a stepping stone between the Learn to Swim Program and the swim club," said Rob Emary, coach of the senior team.

Emary added that the success of the Wildcat Swim Club is a reflection of it's "user-friendly" environment.

"We've had so much success because of it's really parent, athlete and coach friendly. We try to make it the best club it can be," said Emary.

When asked about the increases or decreases of membership, Tucker points directly at one leading influence.

"The Olympics. During an Olympic year we have much more interest. It goes in a four-year cycle," said Tucker. "But Illinois is a strong swimming state."

Tucker added that Illinois is the third-largest swimming state in the country, behind warm-weather swimming Meccas California and Florida.

The Wildcat Swim Club is looking to expand in the near future, and Tucker sees nothing but good things ahead.

"We want to expand—we're waiting for space to open up," said Tucker. "We're going to have a new pool with the new high school referendum passing." "We're really excited. It's a great thing for parents and kids."

Emary said that the expansion will allow for more consistent and workable time-schedules.

"In two years we'll have a new pool," said Emary. "It will provide more opportunities in scheduling. The current workout schedule (5:30 a.m.) is very taxing."

Last weekend the Wildcat Swim Club competed in the Senior State Championships, and took eighth place as a team.

"We broke all but one of our team records for the girls (at the meet)," said Emary. "We finished sixth this summer, but in this meet a lot of kids had to step up for us to get eighth."

Emary noted that the success of the swim team at Libertyville High School has really increased the level of desire and competition for the swim club.

"The athletes are realizing the work and dedication it takes to perform at that level," said Emary. "It really drives them."

"The younger kids see the high school kids excelling, and they grow up anticipating excellence."

So let the youngsters play in the pool, splash around and have fun. More and more of the young swimmers may be seen imitating the 'big kids,' swimming laps and winning races. Some day, they too will grow up to be Wildcats in the water.

John Fischal, aquatic director at Libertyville High School, announced that tryouts for the Wildcat Swim Club will be held Monday March 23, at 6:30 p.m. at the Libertyville High School pool. Spring swimming lessons are full, and the summer Learn to Swim program will be canceled due to renovations.

For more information, or to speak with Mr. Fischal, call 247-6275.

HOROSCOPE

Aries - March 21/April 20

A disagreement with a business associate brings out the best in you. Instead of getting angry, you take the high road and try to see the other side of the situation. Superiors will reward you for your actions. A close friend is there for you when you need him or her. Don't be afraid to open up.

Taurus - April 21/May 21

Don't let others walk all over you when they don't agree with your opinion. Stand up for what you believe in. A family member asks you to help him or her make an important choice. Be supportive, but don't try to sway the decision. Capricorn and Gemini play key roles during the weekend.

Gemini - May 22/June 21

You're not one for monotony, Gemini. Thankfully, you don't have to worry this week. There's so much going on that you don't know which way to turn. Try to get organized, and prioritize your schedule. It's the only way to make any progress. Things will calm down by the end of the week. That special someone finally says yes. Enjoy!

Cancer - June 22/July 22

When it comes to a personal matter, you have to make the first move this week, Cancer. The others involved don't know what to do and are waiting for someone else to take the lead. It's up to you to get the ball rolling. A friend wants to get you involved in a financial scheme. Don't do it; it's too risky.

Leo - July 23/August 23

Don't let your pride get in the way of apologizing to a good friend. You say something insensitive and need to make amends. This relationship means too much to you to let it end. A loved one offers you business advice. While you don't have to follow it, you do have to listen. Remember, he or she means well.

Virgo - Aug 24/Sept 22

Your perfectionist nature gets the best of you in a business situation. Instead of letting an associate present a sloppy project, you fix it up. While you don't get the full credit you deserve, your co-worker does appreciate your help. A loved one needs to talk. Be there for him or her.

Libra - Sept 23/Oct 23

Don't be too naive this week, Libra. An acquaintance tries to pull the wool over your eyes, so be on the lookout. Don't let him or her get away with it. An old friend is trying to solve a "mystery" from the past and needs your help. Be supportive, but don't get too involved in the situation. There's more going on than you think. Aries plays a key role.

Scorpio - Oct 24/Nov 22

While trying to help a close friend, you learn some interesting information. However, it is best to keep this to yourself. Your friend only will be hurt if he or she finds out. A close relative wants to have dinner with you. Don't say no; it's sure to be a good time. Cancer plays a key role.

Sagittarius - Nov 23/Dec 21

Control your temper when it comes to a business associate early in the week. This person really doesn't know what he or she is talking about and doesn't mean any harm. Show that you can be the bigger person. A family gathering turns into a family feud. Try to stay out of it. It will blow over quickly.

Capricorn - Dec 22/Jan 20

Stand your ground when arranging an important get-together with friends. Don't let them take control. It's time for you to take the lead. A loved one gets into trouble and needs your help. Pull all the strings that you can to help him or her. He or she would do the same for you. Pisces plays an important role early in the week.

Aquarius - Jan 21/Feb 18

When it comes to making a business decision, everyone has a different opinion. State your case, and listen to others. While you may not agree with them, respect their views, and work with them to make the right decision. You have to cancel plans with that special someone. Don't worry; he or she will understand.

Pisces - Feb 19/March 20

Start off the week with a clean slate. Don't let the stress of the past few weeks get you down. With a positive attitude, things will start to go your way. A loved one lets some important information slip. Don't start spreading it around. He or she needs your confidence.

Evolution lecture, book signing set

Who are we? Where do we come from? Where are we going? Philosophers and theologians have pondered these questions for millennia. Now, for the first time, science can begin to answer them. # You can't believe everything you read

Recently, I read a book review. In this review, the book reviewer criticized the author of a tell-all memoir for exaggerating some of the information. The reviewer stated that she could not believe the author's mother would ever tell her that if she continued to cross her eyes, "they would stay that way!"

Well, I can personally assure the book reviewer that the author was not fibbing. In fact, maybe the author and I are sisters—my mother used that very phrase many, many times.

Of course, she had to—I was something of a goofball as a child (if you can believe that). Whenever my mother would attempt to have a serious conversation with me, I would invariably reward her with the rapt attention she deserved, crossed eyes and all.

"Stop that," she'd scold, "or your eyes are going to stay that way!"

I would look at her then (both of her), think for a moment, and then uncross one eye. (I only half believed her.)

As I approached the vanity of my teenage years, I was no longer

LIFE'S A BEAR

willing to risk even one eye, and I pretty much gave up the practice altogether, thanks to my mother's warnings.

Now that I'm an adult (?), I realize that she probably never believed my eyes would actually stay crossed. I realize that my mother was, in fact, a wise guy.

And, as a parent four times over, I can understand why. After a while, it can get awfully boring spouting the same old parental warnings: Brush your teeth. Do your homework. Stop that or you'll go blind.

You start looking for ways to spice up your job. And that's exactly how I came up with a new, fun, '90s kind of warning for my son that I'd like to pass on to bored parents everywhere.

This particular child of mine, like many children of his generation, is a video game addict. If I let him, he would spend entire days up in his room with his Nintendo 64 games, staring zombi-like at the TV screen while he blows up whole alien populations with his fingertips.

I don't think this is a particularly healthy pastime, unless you are second in line to Sadaam Hussein. So I had to come up with a creative way to get him to limit his playing time. One that did not make him feel that Mom was just a spoil sport. One that would actually make him want to stop playing.

So, one day, after he'd been karate-chopping monsters (don't worry, Mom, there's no blood when you knock their heads off, just green stuff) non-stop for about two hours, I decided to try a new approach.

I told him that he'd better stop playing because he had ROBOT EYES.

This immediately got his attention.

"What do you mean I have ROBOT EYES?" he said, putting down the controller.

"You know, ROBOT EYES," I said mysteriously. "It happens when you play video games too long."

"Do I have them now?" he asked, looking a little worried.

"Go look in the mirror. See for yourself."

I tried to keep a straight face as he went into the bathroom and looked at his eyes in the mirror, first from one angle and then from another.

"What do ROBOT EYES look like, Mom?"

"Just like yours do, right now. But don't worry—I think you stopped in time."

It worked. He fell for it. Or at the very least, he believed it enough to feel it wasn't worth the risk.

From that day on, all I have to do to get him to stop playing is to walk into his bedroom. He will look up at me and say, "ROBOT EYES?"

I'll answer with a nod of my head, and he will quit playing, without any argument.

Someday soon, I suppose he'll figure it out.

He might even mention it in a tell-all memoir about his childhood.

But that's okay. I'm not worried.

The book reviewer will never believe it, anyway.

Sure pick perennials for long bloom time

Last week we talked about planning a border using annuals. One of the distinct advantages of using annuals, is they do offer continuous blooms, usually from early spring to frost. Many perennials, on the other hand put annuals to shame in every respect, but their bloom time. But, there are quite a few that offer a very long bloom time, and are well worth planting.

A great thing about perennials is they come back year after year. And with each year, they grow taller and broader. You can divide them after awhile and have many plants from one parent plant. Consequently, perennials, in the long run, are much cheaper to grow. They also save time, you do not have to plant a whole garden year after year, as with annuals. You can start perennials by seed, or buy established plants. Naturally, growing them from seed, is also more economical. Just be patient, if starting from seed, they usually will not bloom the first year, but will come back bigger and better the following season.

If starting perennials from seed, you can start them indoors in March, and grow under lights or a sunny window sill. Grow the plants for six to eight weeks and when they are large enough, transplant outdoors to their permanent location. Or you can wait and start the seeds indoors in late June. Grow in pots inside for four to six weeks and then transplant to a nursery bed for further growth over the summer and fall. Mulch and transplant in spring to their permanent location. With this method, you don't have to start everything in early spring, but later in June when you have more time.

Here are some real winners to plant in your garden: Johnson's blue geranium—This is a low growing purple blue "wild" geranium that grows in mounds, and looks great as a border, or under trees and roses. It blooms from late spring to early fall and gets about 1 1/2 feet tall. I grow this variety and it generates a lot of interest.

The Dalmatian bellflower is a version of the Campanula, it is a low grower that spreads to two feet or more and will bloom from late spring to early fall and its height is one to six inches, grow in full sun to light shade. False sunflower is a mound of yellow almost as big as a haystack. It grows in full sun, and blooms in summer to early fall, and its height is three to five feet tall.

The snowbank Boltonia has daisylike flowers, which are very small, but numerous. Plant in full sun to light shade, will bloom late summer and fall and reach four feet. The Eva Cullum phlox is a disease-resistant garden phlox. This variety is one of the longest blooming of all. It blooms in midsummer to fall and will reach three feet in height.

A perennial garden would not be complete without Autumn Joy Sedum, Shasta Daisy, Foxgloves, or the famous Echinacea Purpurea or more commonly known as Purple Cornflower. Don't forget Dianthus, a part of the carnation family, whose little flowers have that great spicy scent. I have many varieties in rose, lilacs, and lavender shades that bloom from spring until fall. There is a new variety that is of a soft yellow hue, Dianthus Knappi-Yellow Harmony. Also, Rudbeckia, is a tall, dramatic winner that makes a lovely cut flower. I have some in the front of my house, and people always ask me what type of flower they are, they are quite stunning. They bloom from summer until fall, and grow two to three feet tall.

Do incorporate some of their perennials in your flower garden this season, you will not be disappointed. Have a great week, peace.

MOVIE REVIEW

'Iron Mask' sinks DiCaprio again

Fresh from his more than triumphant appearance in this or any other year's biggest film, "Titanic," Leonardo DiCaprio is back and his fans get two for one in "The Man in the Iron Mask."

In "Mask," he plays twins, Louis XIV and his twin brother, or if you prefer, the evil Louis XIV and his poor saintly twin brother, Philippe.

When the womanizing king discovers he has a brother, he orders him not only imprisoned, but puts an iron mask on his head so that no one will recognize him as the throne's other 50 percent. We find this act one of the most terrifying in movie history.

DiCaprio is an enigma in the romance department with a baby face that defies puberty, yet his sexy stare works.

The famous Three (would you believe four) Musketeers and company swash and buckle all over the place. Played by top actors Jeremy Irons, John Malkovich, Gabriel Byrne and Gerard Depardieu, they gallantly, though geriatrically, fight to have the proper king sit on the throne of France.

We saw this in well-known earlier editions of the Alexander Dumas classic, with the twin kings played by Louis Hayward, and later by Richard Chamberlain, both enjoyable 16th century historical epics.

Of all the "Mask" films, and they are legion, this is the most star-studded and grandiose, yet probably the most boringly unnecessary.

The plot, seemingly interesting at the start, winds and twists until we get a headache trying to keep up; meanwhile forgetting who the story's characters were, starting with the very weak love interest.

Filled with sincere disappointment, we give this PG-13 rated flick two out of a possible five points, although in the "Titanic's" wake, the film should do well.

With Oscar Night almost upon us, we have decided to jump into the Oscar predictions foray, with Jack Nicholson taking the gold statue for "As Good As It Gets," and Judi Dench for "Mrs. Brown." Best Supporting Actor kudos should go to Burt Reynolds for "Boogie Nights," although Robin Williams or Greg Kinnear could pull off a surprise Oscar grab. We have to give the Best Supporting Actress award to Kim Basinger, who will of course turn her Oscar over to the aged Gloria Stuart. Anyone who survives Hollywood for over 80 years deserves an award!

"Titanic" will get an Oscar for the Best Pic, as will its director James Cameron, and also the Celine Dion hit "My Heart Will Go On." —By Gloria Davis

John Malkovich and Leonardo DiCaprio make swordplay in "The Man in the Iron Mask," a somewhat disappointing remake of the Alexander Dumas classic.

CRITIC'S CHOICE

'PromiseKeepers, Losers Weepers' riotous good fun

Second City mixes old and new techniques in its newest, fast-moving satirical revue, "Promise Keepers, Losers Weepers."

A slick six-member cast — Kevin Dorff, Rachel Dratch, Rachel Hamilton, Rich Talarico, Stephanie Weir and Jim Zulevic — works nicely together. How can one tell? By Gauging how smoothly they pull off the production's two improvisational bits — probably comedy's most difficult challenge. One involves ad libbing parts culled from the daily paper and the other from suggestions tossed out by the audience. In both bits, they manage to capture a feeling of spontaneous zaniness.

Among the moving targets is a wonderful bedroom scene in the White House in which a contrite president blames his weakness on a personal demon, though his spouse isn't buying it. She concludes, "The country has a very good president, and I have a very bad husband."

Mainstream pop culture comes in for its share of lumps, from fluffy television sitcoms to cigar smoking and car worship.

There's a terrific visual "fat" joke (the character has lost 400 pounds and has another 400 to go) and a wild scene in which two Russian pals blow off their heritage for a few trite American aphorisms. As in some of the company's recent productions, recurring threads are woven throughout the revue, starting with the skit in which a surgeon's approach to helping his patients get down-and-dirty with the real world ("Life will be painless when I'm brainless") is to remove a little bit of the brain. "You may be compassionate and care about the people around you; but it can be cured."

Probably the biggest thigh-slapper involves the scene in which an onerous boss is pushing two employees from the steno pool to work horrendous hours to finish a project. Each of their complaints is topped to an exaggerated degree by the new foreign cleaning lady who purports to have seen it all — and then some.

"Promise Keepers, Losers Weepers," directed by Jeff Richmond, has settled in for an open run. Ticket information is available at 312/337-3992. The theater is at 1616 N. Wells, Chicago. —By Tom Witom

Local host families needed for exchange students

Word Heritage, a non-profit, public benefit organization, is seeking local host families for high school boys and girls from Spain, Mexico, France, Germany, Thailand, Sweden, and the NIS (Newly Independent States of the former Soviet Union) coming to this area for the upcoming school year. These personable and academically select exchange students speak English, are bright, curious, and eager to learn about this country through living as part of a family and attending high school.

The exchange students arrive from their home country shortly before school begins and return at the end of the school year. Each World Heritage student is fully insured, brings his or her own personal spending money and expects to bear his or her share of household responsibilities, as well as being included in normal family activities and lifestyles. At the same time the student will be teaching their newly adopted host family about their own culture and language.

The students are well screened and qualified by World Heritage.

Families may select the youngster of their choice from student applications, photo collages, and biographical essays. Once paired, students and families are encouraged to begin corresponding prior to the student's arrival.

World Heritage is also seeking local high school students to become exchange students abroad. Students should be between 15 and 18 years old and interested in living with a host family, attending school and learning about the lands and people of Spain, Mexico, France, and Germany.

Students should be in good academic standing and have a desire to learn of another culture and language through living with a warm and giving volunteer family. Academic year and shorter term summer programs are available.

Those persons interested in obtaining more information about becoming a host family or becoming an exchange student should contact World Heritage's local representative, Dorothy Rosario at 546-0592, or call 1-800-785-9040.

Some things never change: The ritual of spring cleaning begins again

With spring in the air, it's time for the majority of the nation's homeowners to gear up for the cleaning battle. THE MAIDS, one of the United States and Canada's largest and oldest maid services, provides the following list of tips for those "neglected-until-spring-cleaning" areas:

Floor and wall vent covers:

Remove (if possible) and wash vent covers with warm soapy water and dry thoroughly. Use a toothbrush or small paint brush to get in between the slats.

Walls:

Wipe painted walls down with a cloth (wearing rubber gloves or use a sponge mop damp with the following solution: 1 cup ammonia, 1/2 cup white vinegar, and 1/4 cup baking soda with 1 gallon of warm water. Rinse and dry.

Fireplaces:

A 50/50 ratio of water and vinegar will remove the blackened soot on glass front door. If the doors have a spring-loaded clip, remove it, then take out the doors. Lay them flat on newspapers, spray the vinegar/water solution and soak. Wipe it off with newspaper.

Window Sills:

Vacuum out dirt and debris with the upholstery attachment tool and wipe down sills with a mild soap and water mixture. Rub a white candle in the corners of window sills to cut down on dust and moisture.

Waste Baskets:

Scrub waste baskets using soap and water a clean, stiff brush and rinse with a mild disinfectant. Put a fabric softener sheet on the bottom of the container for a fresh smell.

Dryer Hose:

Check the dryer hose and remove any lint buildup. The vacuum cleaner attachment tool may also be used to suck out the lint.

Kitchen Cabinets:

Take out all contents from drawers, dust off items, and vacuum drawers. Wash the bottom of each drawer using a vinegar and water solution of two tablespoons vinegar per one quart of water and wipe dry.

Brighton Ponds: Quality homes at affordable prices

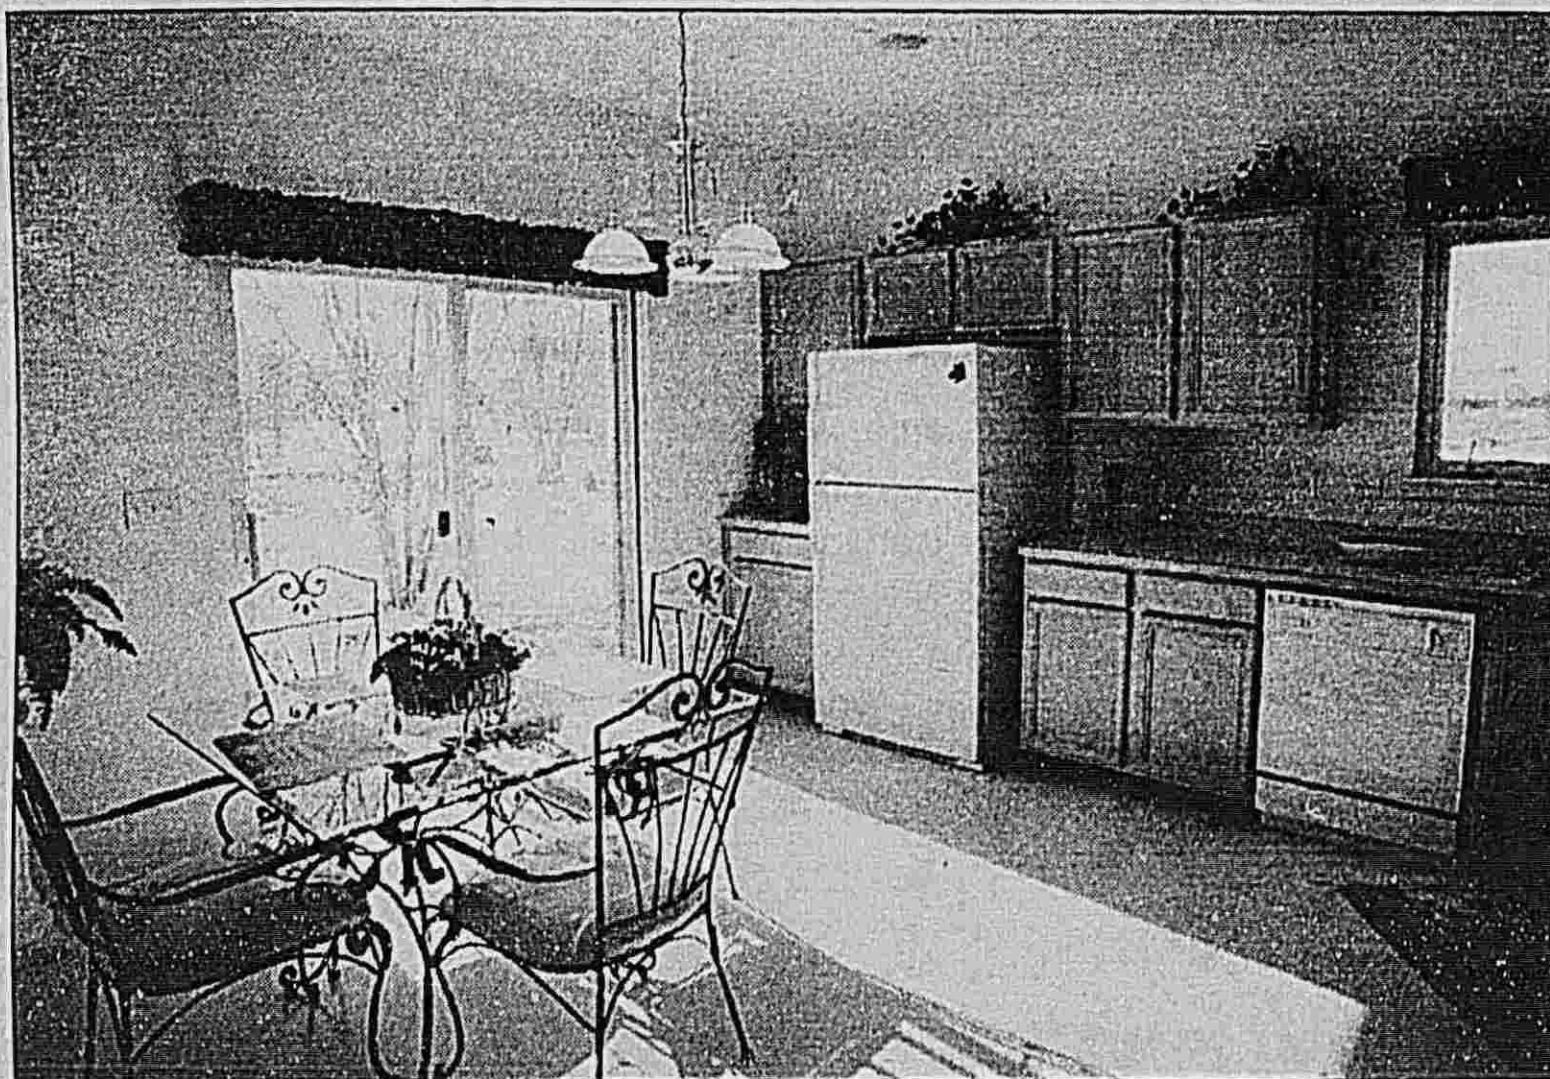

By LESLIE PIOTROWSKI
Correspondent

Brighton Ponds, in the northwest corner of Zion, is an ideal subdivision for families looking for quality homes in an attractive setting at affordable prices. The 45-acre site boasts a two and a half acre private park, four ponds, and a dedicated wildlife area. Developed by Brighton Homes, the 166 single-family homes planned offer innovative architecture and diverse floor plans designed to fit any family lifestyle.

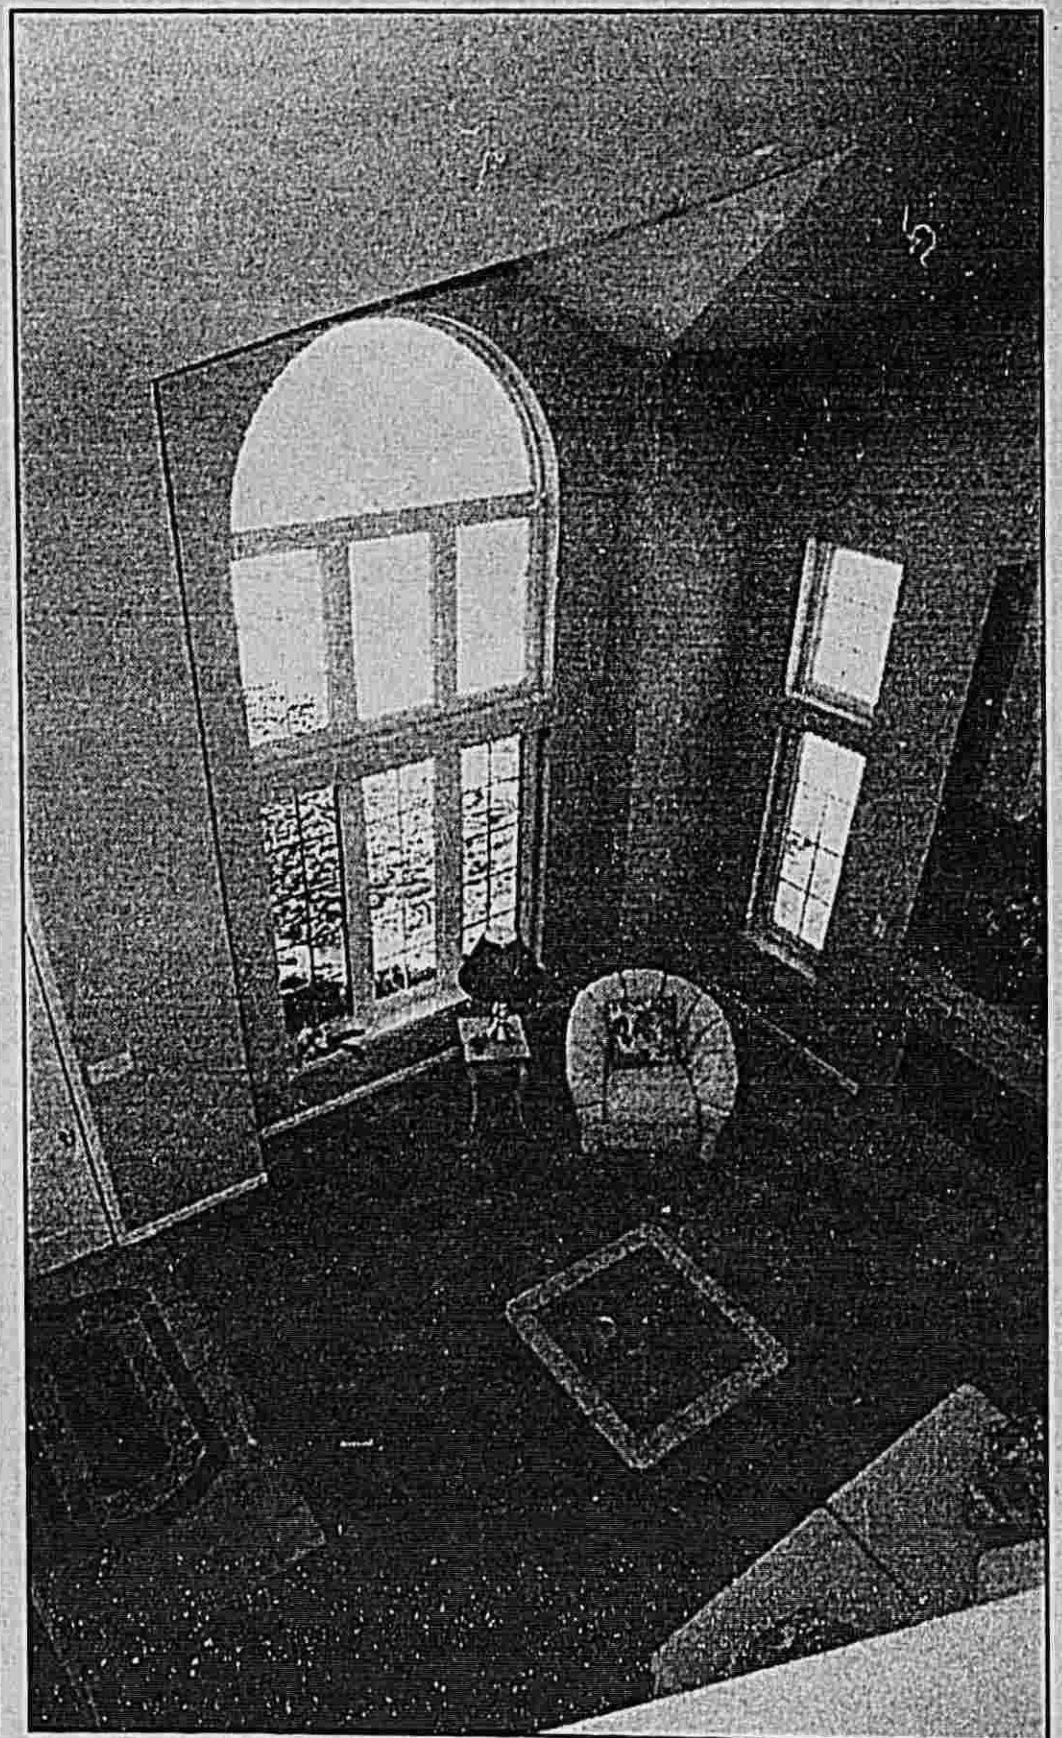

Four home designs are available with prices ranging from $130,000 to $180,000. The Sedgewick is the largest, with 1,758 square feet. Among the features which make this two-story home stand out are the upstairs balcony looking over the living room, the vaulted ceilings in the master bedroom and bathroom, and the 15-foot palladium window in the living room. The home offers three bedrooms, two and a half baths, living room, separate dining room, eat-in kitchen and attached two-car garage. The price ranges from $142,000 to $170,000.

The Brookside is a two-story home with 1,650 square feet. Its classic design offers many traditional features complemented by the most contemporary amenities. In addition to the large master bedroom suite, the second floor offers two 12 x 12 foot bedrooms and an optional bonus room (that would expand the living space to 2,250 square feet). The first floor features nine-foot ceilings and a trayed ceiling in the dining room. Other features include two and a half baths, a first-floor laundry room, large kitchen with breakfast area and an attached two-car garage. It is priced from $8,400 to $155,000.

The Wyntree, 1,405 square feet, offers a unique ranch design. Vaulted ceilings and spacious rooms create a comfortable open atmosphere. It features three bedrooms, two baths, living room, dining room, kitchen, first-floor laundry and a two-car garage. The price ranges from $127,000 to $145,000.

The Harborside, 1,635 square feet, is a Victorian style ranch. Its most dramatic features include a 30 x 50-foot covered porch and an entryway with double side lights. Other features include a great room with trayed ceiling, large breakfast room with floor to ceiling windows, a master bedroom suite with trayed ceiling, a jacuzzi and separate shower in the master bathroom, a vaulted ceiling in one of the two other bedrooms, and an attached two-car garage with a separate storage area. The price ranges from $144,000 to $170,000.

Features included in the price of these homes are wall-to-wall carpeting and padding, sliding patio doors opening to rear yard, designer hardware and trim, cultured marble counter tops in all bathrooms, walk-in closets, Magic Chef appliances, laminated counter tops in choice of color, and a raised-panel insulated entry door with a brass-plated handle. Optional features include baseboards, fireplaces, upgraded cabinets, ceramic tile whirlpool baths and central air conditioning.

Currently 27 homes are either sold or under contract. Doug Little, director of sales and marketing for Brighton Ponds, states that in addition to the affordable prices, the site's scenic surroundings are a major selling point. "Brighton Ponds is a composite of pretty scenery and appealing, spacious homes," says Little. "Interconnected pathways make it easy for home-owners to take advantage of interconnected pathways make it easy for home-owners to take advantage of the park and other amenities. Home owners can pick the size lot they want for their yard. No two lots are the same."

Brighton Ponds is located one half mile north of Route 173 on the west side of Kenosha Road. Located in the Beach Park schools district, it is convenient to I-94, commuter trains and shopping. For more information call (847) 731-2200.

'Crushes can hurt older kids too'

Dear Dr. Singer
A few weeks back I saw a column that you wrote about a 7th grader (I think) who had a crush on a boy and he was cruel to her after finding it out. My daughter is in college and has been there for about the last two years. Unfortunately, it isn't just kids in 7th grade who are that cruel and even more unfortunately, my daughter is going through a very hard time right now. Before I tell you the circumstance, you need to know that my daughter is very attractive, thin and shy. She met a boy she liked very much at her dorm. He was supposed to be everything she liked in a boy. She never let him know that she liked him, but unfortunately one of her friends figured it out and began to broadcast it before she ever got a chance to handle it in a good way. This friend of hers made her look like a fool and as a result, this boy wants nothing to do with her. She has tried to explain it to him and he is very standoffish. He won't even be her friend. She came home last weekend and has said that she is so mortified that she doesn't want to go back to school. I know that I shouldn't be so involved, but it's hard not to be. We read your column all the time and really respect your advice. I wondered if you might be able to give some pearls of wisdom to help her put this in perspective. H.S.

PARENT'S PLACE

Sherri Singer,
Psy.D.

Dear H.S.,

Boy, can I. You'll be interested to know that this is not far from something I went through in college myself. I have a lot to say to your daughter. First and foremost, even though this is painful now, she should not let this make her decisions for her about her future.

She will look back later and realize a million reasons why she is thankful that she never got with this guy. If he was a mature, decent person, he would have realized right after she spoke with him that the broadcasting was not her doing and that he should give her a chance on her own merit. Unfortunately, he may not be that mature and decent. Your daughter needs to realize that there are a lot of fish in the sea and it just isn't worth it to waste any time worrying about the one that is difficult. Also, when someone exhibits one bad personality characteristic, there are usually others to go along with that one. So, if this guy was completely unwilling to listen to your daughter's explanation and won't even be friends with her, there's something else going on with this guy and your daughter should consider the source and not judge her self-esteem or confidence by him or his impressions.

Now, the other issue. You called this person who blabbed, your daughters, "friend." This is an area, in which, I think your daughter could make some important changes. This "friend" sounds like a jerk. Pardon me for getting so blunt, but friends don't usually stab you in the back so profoundly. This person hurt your daughter and I'm not sure that "friend" would be the correct title. Of course, it is your daughter's decision on what she will ultimately do here, but I think she needs to find friends that support her and help her instead of people who will "serve her up."

One last thing: your daughter needs to know that when this happened to me, I didn't think I was going to survive it. It was terribly painful. I'm happy to report though that each day, I thank God that I didn't end up with the one that I was hooked on. Things have a way of working themselves out the right way. Your daughter needs to believe in herself and her talents. She needs to say to herself, "no one is worth giving up my education and my dreams for." She needs to realize that even though this one wasn't right for her, the guy who is right for her is out there and waiting. He may even be at school and if she doesn't get out there, she'll miss him. Why let someone take that away from her? It's not worth it. I sincerely hope she reads this and takes it to heart because I know and she should know that there is life—terrific life, on the other side of one of these hurts, if she'll allow herself to find it. Good luck.

IN THE KITCHEN

Give yourself a kiss—a peanut butter kiss!

This Peanut Butter Kiss Cookie recipe is perfect for the times when you crave something sweet. Fortunately, this recipe is very easy and quick, so you don't have to wait long to satisfy the craving!

Peanut Butter Kiss Cookies

Ingredients:

1/2 Cup Crisco butter-flavor shortening
1-1/4 Cup brown sugar
1-3/4 Cup flour
3 Tbl. milk
1 Tbl. vanilla
1 egg
1 tsp. baking soda
3/4 Cup smooth peanut butter
1/4 tsp. salt

3 dozen Hershey's kisses
Approx. 1 cup sugar

Directions:

Combine shortening, peanut butter, brown sugar, milk and vanilla in large bowl. Mix until blended. Add egg. Mix again until just blended. In medium bowl, combine flour, salt and baking soda and mix gradually into batter until moist.

With the palms of your hands, roll batter into one-inch diameter balls. Place balls individually into bowl of granulated sugar and roll until completely covered. Place onto cookie sheet approximately 1-1/2 inches from each other.

When cookie sheet is full, take a fork and gently make a "criss-cross" design on each cookie. Place into preheated 350-degree oven for 13 minutes or until cookies are light golden color (bottoms will be darker). Take cookies out and gently push a Hershey's kiss into the middle of each cookie. Place cookies back in oven for 30 seconds. Take cookies out and cool on a sheet of tin foil. Makes approximately three dozen cookies.

This is the best peanut butter cookie recipe I've found. The cookies are slightly crunchy on the outside, but nice and moist inside—and they go great with a cold glass of milk. Enjoy!

'Breakin' Strings' pop/folk band appears at Flatlander's March 26

Breakin' Strings with its fresh and exciting brand of pop/folk music will appear at 9 p.m. on Thursday, March 26, at Flatlander's Restaurant and Brewery, Lincolnshire.

Performers Jim Gutierrez and Jose Berrios said their music has "an appealing quality of intimacy with both their string instruments and vocals that was never captured while performing for many years in a rock band."

In both the style and complexity of such artists as the Beatles, Paul Simon and Indigo girls, their songs echo of personal struggle, hope and triumph that they state "reaches out to a wider audience."

The two of them individually compose their own music and then come together for the final arrangements. They said this method of writing music "creates a freshness and excitement to their work which becomes the music of Breakin' Strings."

In addition to their own songs, they play such tunes as American Pie, Can't Buy Me Love, Carolina In My Mind, Breakfast at Tiffany's, Southern Cross, Leader of the Band, Smalltown Saturday Night and She's A Woman.

Tim Lukoski, general manager at Flatlander's, said his establishment serves Midwest cuisine and offers a fine selection of its micro-brewed beer that soon will be featured in a book by Michael Jackson, the beer expert, on the world's great beer.

Flatlander's is located on Milwaukee Avenue where routes 45 and 21 meet just north of Route 22 in the north section of downtown Lincolnshire. For information call 847/821-1234.

How to Speak Hawaiian Like A Kamaaina

by JIM WARNEK
President, North Star Travel

On my first trip to Hawaii, about all I learned is that almost all streets in Honolulu start with the letter "K" and could not be pronounced by anyone from the mainland. Well, I was wrong.

After learning a few simple rules, anyone can speak Hawaiian like a Kamaaina (a native-born Hawaiian).

Hawaiian, unlike English, is strictly phonetic. The missionaries who first wrote the language just spelled out the words exactly as they were spoken. Each letter in a word is sounded separately, even two vowels that come together. For example, the island Kahoolawe is pronounced Kah-oh-lay-way. There are no silent vowels to contend with. No rules to remember such as if a vowel is "long" or "short."

There are a few vowel combinations, however. "A" is sounded as "eye," as in Hawaii. "Au" is "Ow" as in luau (that's where they roast the pig, etc.). "Ei" is "Ay," as in "Lei" (the flower necklace the pretty Hawaiian girl puts around your neck at the luau).

With those rules, and knowing the second to the last syllable gets the accent, you're on your way to speaking Hawaiian like a Kamaaina. See, you pronounced that right!

If it seems like many of the Hawaiian words look alike, it's because there are only 12 letters used in the Hawaiian language. Five vowels and seven consonants can only go so far. (Wheel of Fortune would be an easy game in Hawaiian).

How about a few simple words so we can practice? A man is a kane, a woman a wahine. You might roast a puaa (pig) at a luau. When you want to thank someone, you say "mahalo."

If you ask for directions, Hawaiians will usually tell you that some place is either makai (towards the sea) or mauka (island), rather than referring to north or south.

Get out those Hawaiian brochures your travel agent gave you and try some of those city names. You'll find it's kind of fun once you get the hand of it!

Week of the Young Child promises fun, learning

Entertainment, lectures, and education dominate week-long celebration

Appearances by legendary entertainer, Ella Jenkins, and child psychiatrist, Dr. Stanley Turecki, will highlight the Child Care Coalition of Lake County's celebration of the Week of the Young Child starting Sunday, April 19.

Jenkins, who has been singing with children for 40 years and has released 28 albums and two videos, will be the headliner at the Week of the Young Child kickoff at Gurnee Mills Mall on Sunday from 12:30 to 3:30 p.m. The free family event also features Joel Frankel, singer and storyteller, and Truly Remarkable Loon, who juggles bean bag chairs.

Dr. Turecki, nationally known child and family psychiatrist and frequent guest on "The Oprah Winfrey Show," will discuss "Normal Children Have Problems, Too" Thursday, April 23, at 7:30 p.m. at the College of Lake County Performing Arts building. Admission is $5. The college is on Washington street in Grayslake.

Dr. Turecki's lecture is the Coalition's first event made possible by the Quality Project, funded through a $200,000 grant from the State of Illinois. The grant was initiated by State Sen. Terry Link to help the Coalition continue to raise awareness of the value of excellent early childhood education and care.

The Gurnee Mills kickoff will take place in the Showcourt area, near the JCPenny outlet, adjacent to parking lot G or H. Gurnee Mills, at 6170 Grand Avenue in Gurnee, is off of Illinois Interstate 94.

Jenkins' appearance is underwritten by Kemper Insurance Companies. The annual family activity event will carry out the 1998 theme, "Making Time for Children," with arts and crafts areas where children and parents can create items to take home. Teachers from local preschools and day care centers, including Spanish-speaking programs, will assist with crafts and with face painting. Lake County organizations will distribute information on ways to improve parenting skills and how to find help from local resources.

The Child Care Coalition of Lake

County's celebration is part of the National Association for the Education of Young Children's effort to draw attention to young children as the country's most valuable resource.

Other events marking the Week of the Young Child will take place at centers throughout Lake County. At Family Network in Highland Park, for example, Phyllis Higgins, social worker with Family Service of South Lake County, will talk with parents on Friday, April 24, at 10 a.m. about letting children set their own pace for growing and thriving.

The Child Care Coalition of Lake County—made up of professionals in health, education, welfare and business—works to achieve high quality care and education for young children.

How do you know when is a toothache really a toothache?

It might hurt a lot, but the pain that seems like a toothache could actually come from another part of mouth or body, says dentists.

"Sometimes a tooth may ache from nondental sources, such as other sites in your head, your neck, or even your heart," explains Keith Suchy, DDS. A general dentist who practices in Westchester, Ill.

Toothache pain, he says, can be referred from one part of your body to another. "The site of the pain isn't necessarily where the pain will be felt," says Dr. Suchy.

Pain can be projected or distributed along a nerve that is the source of pain. For example, pain in the head, jaw or heart could be projected through a nerve that will translate as pain in a particular tooth. Virtually every category of headache and facial pain can cause toothaches, including sinus infections and colds.

Other nondental sources of toothaches include tumors in the head, hiatal hernia, osteoarthritis or rheumatoid arthritis, diabetes, osteomyelitis (inflammation of the bone) and depression.

Angina pectoris, or heart spasm, may be one of the more serious types of referred pain to a tooth, says Dr. Suchy. As the coronary arteries narrow with angina pectoris, the blood supply diminishes to the heart, creating pain that can be felt in a tooth. Angina pectoris radiates to the jaw about 12 percent of the time.

"Dentists recognize that pain in a tooth can actually come from another part of the body," says Dr. Suchy. "That is why patients are asked all those questions on the medical history form. Many people seem confused that we ask about health problems that do not seem to related to the oral cavity, but remember, many symptoms appear first in the oral cavity and dentists are the first to detect them. They can then refer to the appropriate source for treatment. Dentists truly are on the frontlines of diagnosis."

Questions and answers about children's immunizations

Why is it important to have my children immunized?

Immunizations that children receive protect them against disease that can cause serious health problems, and even death in some cases. For instance, whooping cough may cause pneumonia and death, and Haemophilus Influenza Type B may cause brain damage. Even measles, which many consider a common childhood disease can, if left unchecked, cause pneumonia, brain damage, blindness and death.

How do I get immunizations for my children?

If your physician provides these immunizations, it is best to continue there because the continuity of care is enhanced. If you are unable to get them through your physician, for whatever reason, immunizations are available for $6.00 a dose from one of the Lake County Community Health Partnership Immunization Clinics listed on the back of this brochure. No one will be turned away because of inability to pay.

What do I need to bring to the clinic?

Bring the previous immunization record. You can get this from your physician or school.

What immunizations are given at Lake County Community Health Partnership Clinics?

Polio; Diphtheria, Tetanus, Pertussis (DTP/DTAP); Haemophilus Influenza Type B (Hib); Measles, Mumps, Rubella (MMR); and Hepatitis B (for children born after 11/22/91 or for children entering fifth grade).

Are flu or chicken pox vaccine given?

Flu vaccine is not given. Parents should call the Lake County Health Department at 847/360-3114 regarding availability of chicken pox vaccine.

What if my children have allergies or are sick when I want to get them immunized?

More than likely they can still be immunized. It all depends on what illness they have.

For answers to other questions on immunizations, please call your physician. You can also call the Lake County Health Department at 847/360-3114.

Condell Medical Center's pharmacy offers ABCs of pediatric medication

Thirteen million children take medication prescribed or recommended by a physician every week. These medications are used to treat anything from minor illnesses such as colds to serious health problems. However, according to a "U.S. Pharmacist" article, studies show that approximately half of all medications given to children are not administered correctly. The most frequent errors noted, included:

1. Changing dose forms or dosing schedule to suit patient or family convenience.
2. Over-the-counter medications chosen or dosed inappropriately.
3. Using old or leftover medication or "sharing" medication with other family members.

According to Kati Kwasiborski, R.Ph., Director of Pharmacy, at Condell Medical Center, 801 S. Milwaukee Ave., Libertyville, drug therapy in children is more complex than in adults. And, children are very vulnerable to medication blunders. The National Institute of Child Health and Human Development notes that youngsters, because of their immature kidneys and livers, cannot eliminate drugs from their systems as efficiently as adults. Additionally, their small size requires doses to be very exact.

To ensure safe and effective medication treatment for children, follow these simple ABCs:

A—Ask your doctor or pharmacist the medication name, the reason it was prescribed, the amount of time it will take to produce an effect, and what common side effects may be seen and which ones your require contact with your doctor.

B—Be sure to understand the dosing schedule. Understand if it is important for the child to finish all the medication no matter how the youngster is feeling (eg. antibiotics); or if it is only to be used when the child has the symptoms (eg. for pain/temperature). Find out how the doses should be spaced during the day and what should be done if a dose is missed.

C—Calibrate the dose exactly. Never use kitchen spoons for liquid medication. Obtain a calibrate spoon, cup or dropper from a pharmacist.

D—Don't use medication past its expiration date, or if it has appeared to change color or texture, Don't crush tablets unless a professional says it is safe to do so.

E—Educate yourself on the over-the-counter medications available. Discuss these medications with a doctor or pharmacist before administering to child. Never modify an adult medication to treat a child.

F—Follow all special label instructions including refrigerate, shake well, or avoid dairy products.

Drug administration to children requires special attention. Keep children safe and healthy.

Self-care and grooming seminar for the blind slated

The Guild for the Blind is hosting a "Self-Care and Grooming Seminar for Men and Women" on April 4, from 8:00 a.m. to 12:00 p.m. at 180 N. Michigan Avenue, Suite 1700 in Chicago. This seminar is free and is offered to adults who are blind or visually impaired.

Next Beth Bubala of the Illinois Dental Hygienist's Association will address the importance of good dental hygiene.

The seminar will wrap up with three different workshops. Men will attend the workshop "Personal Hygiene for Men" with speaker Leniel Scott of the Chicago Lighthouse discussing cleanliness, organization, and image. Women will have the choice of attending one of two workshops. "Personal Hygiene for Women" will be given by Lenore Dillon of Northern Illinois University and will cover grooming, hair care, and clothing. Patsy Simmons, formerly of Mary Kay Cosmetics, will present "Choosing the Right Makeup and How to Apply It." This workshop will cover choosing makeup and the appropriate colors, makeup application tips, and other useful information.

Registration is from 8:00 to 8:30 a.m. During registration, coffee and doughnuts will be served. Plan to attend this important and useful seminar. To register or for more details, call Cheryl Daube, Education Coordinator, at (312) 236-8569 by Friday, March 27. Women calling should be prepared to state their workshop choice.

Founded in 1947, the Guild for the Blind promotes the independence of children and adults who are blind or visually impaired through individualized, consumer-driven programs and services locally, nationally and internationally. These programs and services include: computer training; braille instruction; transcription of work—and study-related materials into braille and large print, or onto audio tape; teaching the self-defense technique, TaeKwonDo; and the sale, at cost, of products specially designed for people who are blind or visually impaired.

Support groups to end silence for victims of domestic abuse

Not all victims of domestic abuse have blackened eyes and broken bones. "It's the wounds inside that never heal," confessed one Lake County woman who silently endured 19 years of emotional abuse and financial control from her husband, a well-respected community professional.

Whether they suffer the effects of physical, emotional or financial abuse, most victims of domestic abuse find this is one affliction in our society that is still too humiliating, too painful and too personal to share with even the closest of family or friends. Support groups offer victims an understanding, nonjudgmental atmosphere in which to share experiences and release feelings of frustration, fear and isolation.

A Safe Place/Lake County Crisis Center conducts free satellite support groups which meet weekly in confidential locations in Deerfield, Vernon Hills, Round Lake and Waukegan where women can gather to share this pain and heartache and begin to build self-esteem, becoming empowered to make decisions which hopefully will lead to abuse-free lives. For Latina women, there is a support group conducted in Spanish and a second is in the planning stages.

Information regarding days, times and locations of the support groups is available by calling A Safe Place's 24-hour Help Line at 249-4450. Individual counseling, court advocacy, children's counseling, prevention education and shelter services are also available.

Youth inhalant abuse increases, seminar participants told

Too many young people are putting themselves at risk for permanent physical impairment and even death by abusing inhalants that were designed for household and commercial use.

"It takes paint off your house," Maggie Bormann, director of youth service for Charla Waxman, Inc., said, looking at a can of paint thinner. "Why would you want to put it in your body?"

Yet one of five eighth-graders has used inhalants, she said. Bormann is especially alarmed by research that shows that of every 10 people who die from the use of inhalants, three were first-time users.

Bormann was speaking at a recent (March 5) seminar sponsored by Prevention Services/InTouch, a partnership of the Northern Illinois Council on Alcoholism and Substance Abuse (NICASA), the College of Lake County and the Lake County Health Department. The 40 participants included police officers, teachers, substance abuse counselors and prevention specialists, and social workers.

Bormann's table display of inhalants included such common household and commercial products as cooking spray, correction fluid, insect repellent, hair spray, model airplane glue and fabric protector. She said there are from 1,200 to 1,400 products available "for people to get high. It's that scary if you look around your house," she said.

She said inhalants are not just household products. "They're killing machines."

Bormann said that pre-teens who wouldn't otherwise use such drugs as alcohol or marijuana might try inhalants because they are legal products, easy to get to and inexpensive.

She stressed the importance of education and prevention.

"A lot of kids wouldn't use inhalants if they thought it would kill them," she said.

The National Inhalant Prevention Coalition, which is sponsoring Inhalants & Poisons Awareness Week, said more than one million youth tried inhalants last year.

Signs of inhalant abuse, according to the coalition, include:

- Red or runny eyes or nose,
- Spots or sores around the mouth,

- Chemical breath odor,
- Drunk, dazed or dizzy appearance,

- Anxiety, excitability, irritability,
- Paints or stains on body or clothing.

Harmful effects of inhalant abuse include short-term memory loss, hearing loss, limb spasms, permanent brain damage, bone marrow damage and liver and kidney damage.

The coalition recommends that parents and educators teach children about the danger of these toxic substances.

Loyola implants new technology to treat atrial fibrillation

A 59-year-old Joliet resident left Loyola University Medical Center, in Maywood, Ill., less than 24 hours after receiving the first implantable cardiac device in Illinois to control the debilitating effects of atrial fibrillation (AF), a common heart rhythm disorder that significantly reduces the heart's ability to pump blood.

"Affecting more than 2.5 million Americans, AF is an irregular heart rhythm that results from chaotic electrical signals in the upper chambers of the heart and can result in serious health consequences including shortness of breath, palpitations, fainting, reduced capacity for exercise and blood clots leading to strokes," said Brian Olshansky, M.D., professor of medicine, director of electrophysiology at Loyola.

Olshansky used the stopwatch-sized implantable atrial defibrillator developed by InControl, Inc., to send precisely timed low-energy shocks through the patient's heart to restore a normal rhythm. The procedure to implant the new device is very similar to the procedure used to implant a permanent pacemaker.

Through design, the atrial defibrillator is able to deliver therapy automatically to the patient when AF is detected or under a physician's control in their hospital or office, depending on how the device is programmed by the physician. The defibrillator is also designed to permit the patient to control their own AF therapy by activating the device when the symptoms of AF are felt and then delivering shocks if deemed appropriate.

The man, James Burns, is one of only 100 AF patients in the world to undergo this new surgical procedure.

Diagnosed with AF for more than five years, Burns had experienced several episodes of the disorder, which reduced his capacity to perform normal day-to-day activities. In fact, before the procedure, Burns was unable to walk more than 50 feet. The disorder forced Burns, a heavy equipment operator of 41 years, into early retirement.

In an effort to treat the complications associated with AF, Burns was prescribed heart rate controlling, anticoagulation and antiarrhythmic drugs in conjunction with external cardioversion. However, due to the severity of AF and complications associated with the drug therapies, Burns became a candidate for the implantable atrial defibrillator.

"With the new technology available, Mr. Burns should be able to return to his normal daily activities and to a lifestyle that allows more freedom. I am confident that this device will substantially improve the quality of life for James and provide him with piece of mind that if an AF episode occurs, the atrial defibrillator will respond with the appropriate therapy," said Olshansky.

Oral cancer: Where are the exams?

Determining exactly how often oral cancer examinations are performed by dentists is difficult in light of the contradictory accounts given by dentists and patients surveyed on the topic, reports AGD Impact, the news-magazine of the Academy of General Dentistry.

A 1995 Maryland study of 62 dentists revealed that 83 percent claim to routinely perform annual cancer screens on high-risk patients. Yet a 1994 National Center for Health Statistics Survey of 12,035 patients showed that only 14.3 percent of respondents reported having ever received an oral cancer examination.

There are a number of reasons dentists may be lax in conducting the exams. Dental schools train dental students to identify and treat oral cancer, but don't emphasize conducting the exams, dentists say. Also, dentists may be reluctant to mention the word "cancer," to their patients. And diagnosis itself often isn't easy, since early lesions can look fairly innocuous and patients may appear asymptomatic.

But conducting the exams is necessary in light of the sobering statistics on oral cancer. Of the approximately 40,000 new cases of oral cancer each year, some 9,000 Americans will die from the disease. Men are affected about twice as often as women. Once the disease is discovered (often in later stages), only about half of all patients will survive beyond five years.

The most common type of oral cancer, squamous cell carcinoma, accounts for 90 to 95 percent of oral malignancies. Sites include the lips, tongue, floor of the mouth, gingiva and alveolar mucosa, buccal mucosa and oropharynx. Oral cancer can appear as blue, white, red or red-and-white patch, or as an ulcer or mass.

Isley calls it quits, $100,000 missing

Faced with federal embezzlement investigation, Lake County Chamber President resigns

By Leon Filas
Staff Reporter

Chuck Isley III resigned from his position of Lake County Chamber of Commerce President Tuesday amid a swelling controversy over his personal bankruptcy and a federal investigation against him.

Isley, who has been the chamber's chief executive officer for the past two decades, has been under a probe by the U.S. Department of Labor for his financial dealings with the International Employee Welfare Union, a union he founded in 1995.

According to reports, Isley's resignation was due to his retirement from the chamber. The chamber of commerce feels his financial dealings have nothing to do with the chamber.

"He has resigned and is retiring from the chamber," Matt Nordigan, chamber trustee, stated. "He's retiring. That's all we know."

"Ed Hucker, a past chamber director, will be heading up a transitional team to locate a new president," Nordigan stated. "Hucker will not be the president, he is just helping to find one."

According to a report filed from the department in relation to Isley's bankruptcy, evidence shows that Isley has been "borrowing money at his discretion" against planned accounts for the union. The union was founded to provide health and life insurance to small businesses.

Isley, during his bankruptcy, listed the union and its Death Benefit Trust Fund as creditors. He currently owes them $84,000. The court documents state that the money owed is closer to $100,000.

The Department of Labor is trying to stop the bankruptcy hearings in lieu of not having the power to file criminal charges.

Bell tolls for thee

Bell family fights eviction

By SPENCER SCHEIN
Staff Reporter

Picking apples and buying fresh baked apple pies and strudels at Bell's Apple Orchard in Lake Zurich has been a tradition for 59 years for many people throughout the Chicago metro area.

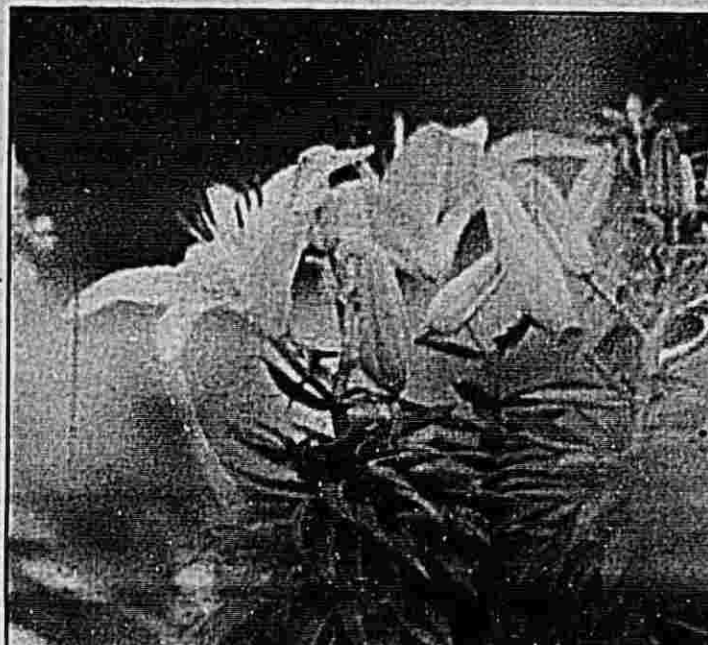

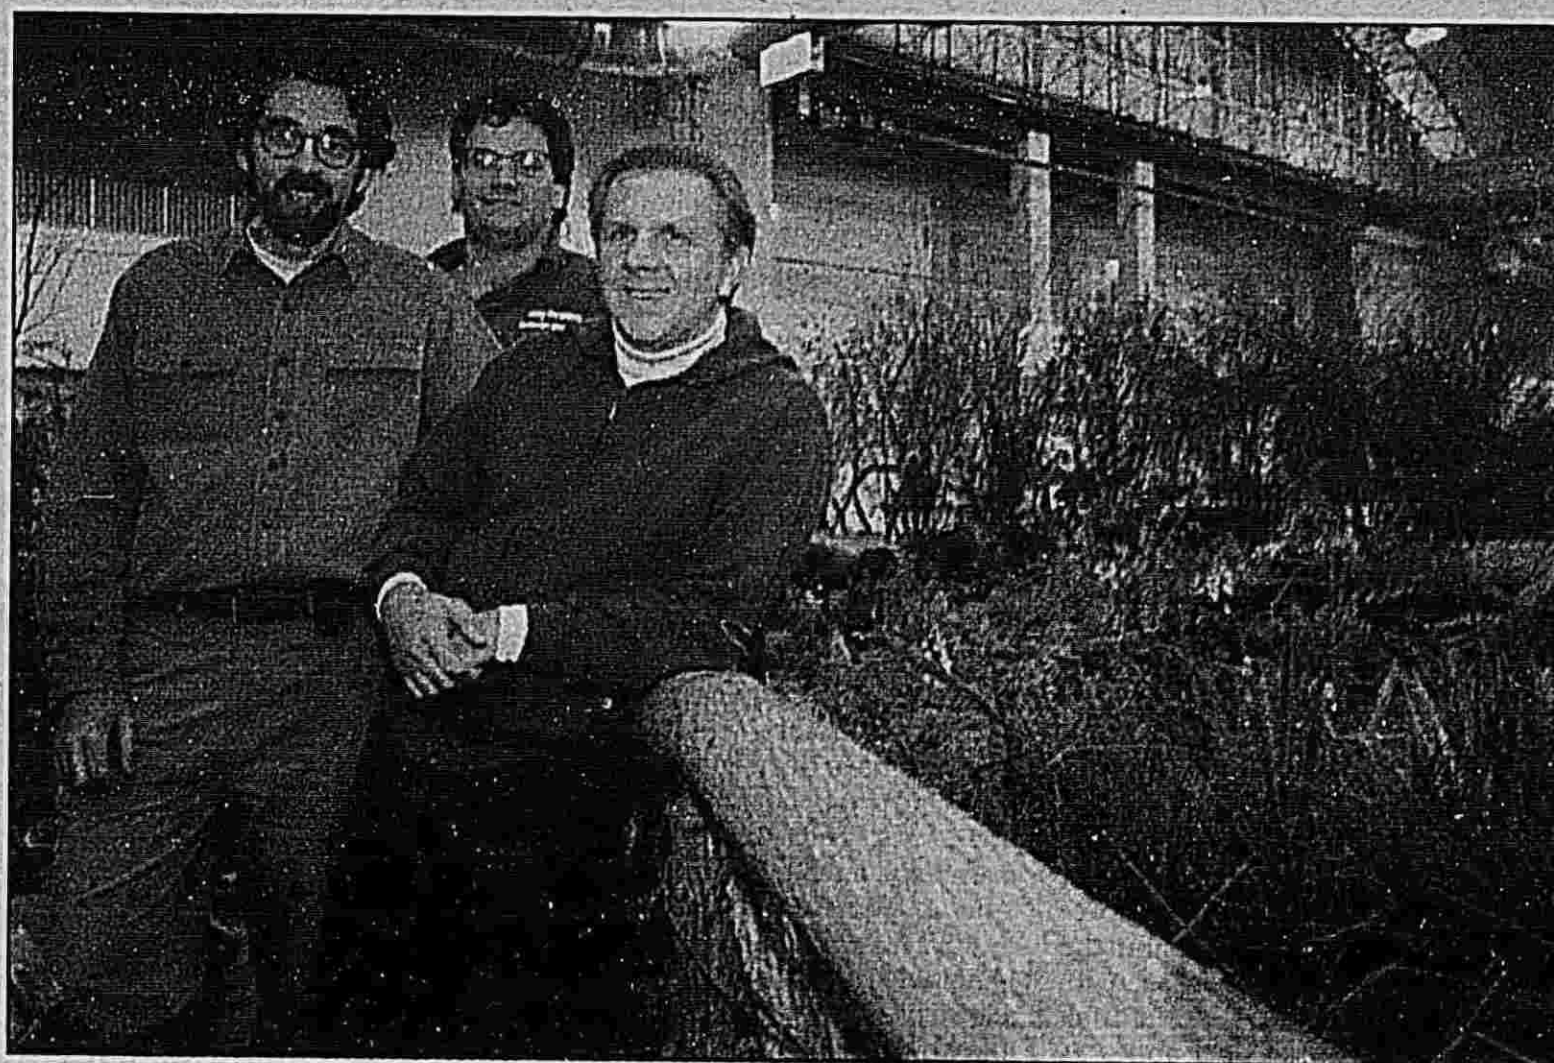

The orchard has also been a field trip destination to more than one million school children from the suburb and city schools.

That may all come to a close, as a federal bankruptcy court judge has ordered the Bell family to vacate the property, located one-quarter mile west of Route 12 on Route 22, by Saturday, March 21, until a land owner dispute is decided.

Bell's has been involved in legal battles with Coronet Insurance Co., of Chicago for the past several years. Coronet became partners with the Bell family in 1993, helping it out of its own financial troubles, but later started a feud over the orchard management and ultimately went bankrupt itself, authorities said.

John L. Bell III, grandson of the ## Growing a gift

Lake County gardeners can marvel in horticultural spectacle

By ELIZABETH EAKEN
Staff Reporter

If you've never read "The Wind in the Willows," this year's garden at the Chicago Flower & Garden Show, by Craig Bergmann's Country Garden, of Winthrop Harbor, may inspire you to peruse the book.

The garden was inspired by the book written by Kenneth Grahame. A cozy cottage beside a bog, surrounded by an early summer landscape, transports imagination's to the world of Rat, Toad, Mole and Badger, all of whom are characters in the children's classic.

The show gardens by Craig Bergmann's are known for being imaginative. Every year since the garden show was resurrected the garden center has created a feast for the eye in an attempt to inspire gardeners young and old.

Last year, over 100,000 people visited the garden show and the waiting time to enter their garden was 30 minutes on the weekend.

The entire process for creating the garden this year began in the fall of 1996 when the first seeds were sown for some of the flowers, including delphiniums and foxgloves.

The garden company is co-owned by Craig Bergmann and James Grigsby. Grigsby, a former professor at the Art Institute of Chicago came up with the theme of Wind in the Willows. Then Grigsby, Bergmann, a landscape architect and a member of their team collaborated on the design.

This year's garden measures 2,500 square feet, contains thousands of perennials, and 72 loads of dirt, enough to fill a semi-trailer. Up to 12 workers spent the week before the show opened assembling the garden.

Everyone has their favorite feature in the garden. For Head Gardener Russell Buvala, of Gurnee, it's the willow tree. The tree is actually the 36-inch diameter trunk of a willow which was dug up at Hook's Nursery in Antioch

Salvi stuns GOP pick Churchill

Wauconda politician to face Jesse White in Secretary of State race

By RHONDA HETRICK BURKE
& LEON FILAS
Staff Reporters

Al Salvi is making a habit of downing top-name Republicans in the primary.

This time he wants to experience winning in the general election, too.

Salvi toppled fellow Lake County Republican Bob Churchill to win the Republican nomination for Secretary of State. Salvi will be facing Democratic nominee, Jesse White from Chicago in the November election.

"We worked off a positive campaign," Salvi stated. "We related a positive message, worked hard and showed we were willing to take on controversial subjects."

The race between Salvi and Churchill, the number two ranking Republican in the House of Representatives, was close throughout the night. When the final tallies were in, Salvi was ahead down state, in Cook County and in the collar counties.

Churchill, a long-time GOP leader in Lake County, did edge Salvi in vote tallies on the home turf, 27,606 to 23,803 in Lake County, where campaigning from both parties was light.

"We saw each other a lot around the state," Salvi said. "You always hope you have the vote at home."

At 10:19 p.m. on Tuesday, a roar went up at the headquarters as Salvi proclaimed victory.

He gave his victory speech at 10:45, proclaiming that he would follow the same standards he followed through this entire campaign, proclaiming that he would run a clean campaign until the election in November.

"We have been running a positive campaign, dealing strictly with the issues," Salvi stated. "I want this campaign ahead to be run on ideas and not on negative attacks."

Salvi, who's innovative campaign idea was proposing special license plates made available for people who want to put money back into the school system, used that to spring board into the months ahead.

"Our government hasn't been promoting enough for ideas," Salvi continued. "With my license plate for education idea, we can put money back into our school system without raising taxes in the state. The money wouldn't go to government but rather it will be put directly back into the local school system."

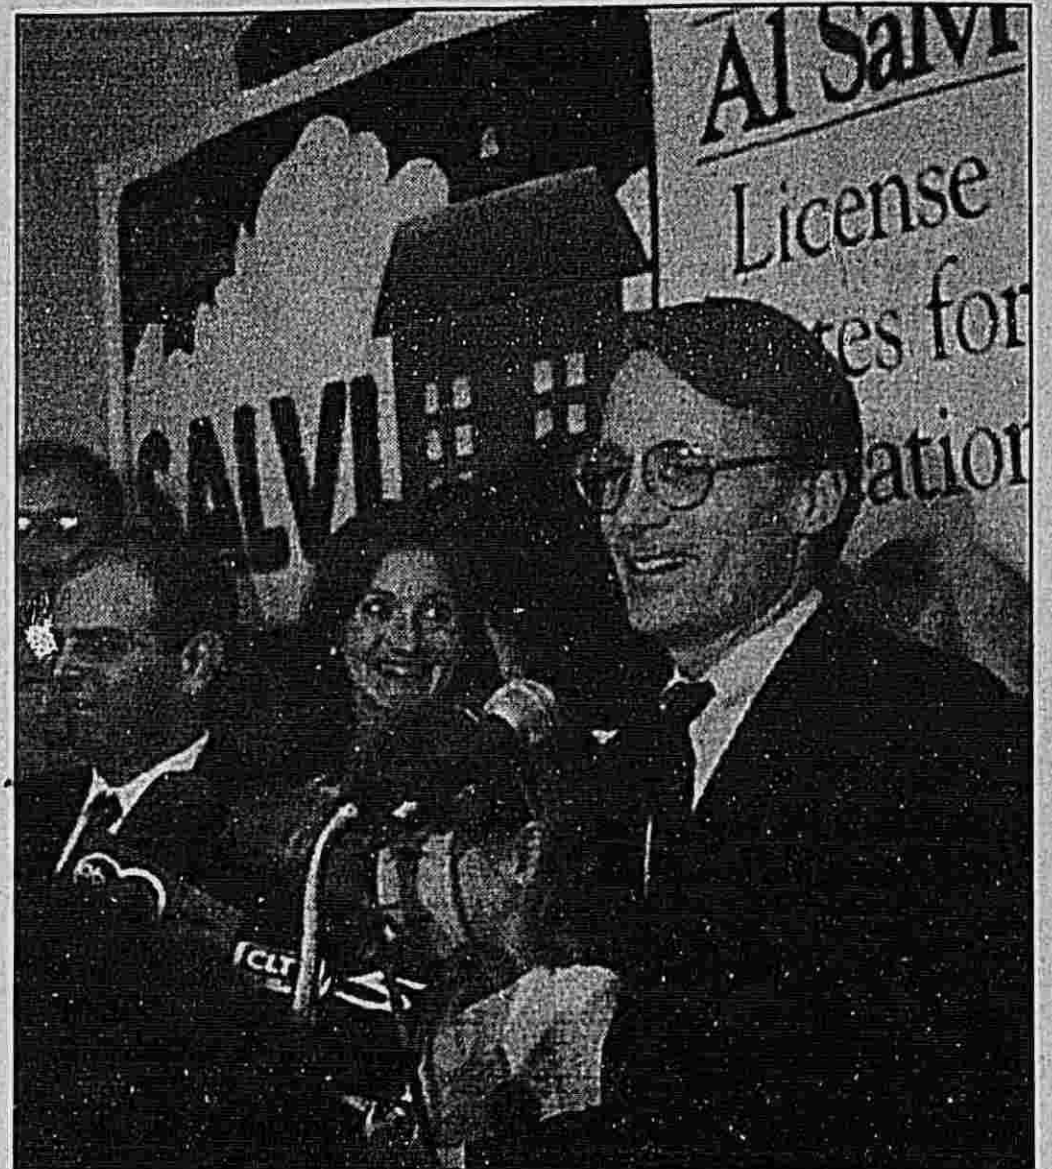

Also, he left the room with something to grow on.

"I declared that it was going to be a tight race before, but I would seek out a victory," Salvi stated. "I declare that we will win 55 to 60 percent of the vote in November."

Salvi says he will enjoy the support of the party during the general election campaign.

"I have talked to George Ryan and we will be getting together tomorrow to talk about strategy for November," Salvi said. "I think we have earned the support of the party. Even in the primary, I had two of three county chairmen behind me."

"I'm very excited about this," said Kathy Salvi, Al's wife. "Secretary of State is the office that fuels the Republican party."

BELL: Family fights eviction

orchard founder who runs the orchard with his sister, Peggy Seigel, said they filed a motion to rescind or amend the vacate motion order on March 14, following a request by the firm that has laid claim to being the property owner to have the family removed.

That petition is likely to be heard early next week, but an attorney representing Bell's has been reported as saying they may be able to stay on the property until the appeal is heard.

"If we fail we will have to appeal because we feel it was an unfair decision," John Bell said.

Bell said he has voluntarily vacated his residence on the property. However, his mother, Ruth Bell, 92, is remaining, along with the businesses she operates under Friends of Bells and her interest in the Forever Bells company, formed with Coronet in 1993.

"Our problem is it is a little tough to move 25,000 apple trees," he said, referring to the trees that were planted in 1994 and 1995 as part of an aggressive replant program.

He said it was also unfair to ask the family to move the property with one-week's notice. "We have every confidence if given our opportunity to present our case, we have every confidence of proving our partnership interest in the property," Bell said. "So far, we have been able to buy a majority of the business equity, which includes all of the trees and a majority of the equipment."

"And most importantly, our names, Bell's Apple Orchard."

Bell said they bought that back in June 1997, following a legal battle with Clyde Engle, owner of Coronet.

last fall. The trunk was stored over the winter and is getting a second life in the exhibit, according to Grigsby.

The 5-day show runs through March 22 in the exhibit hall at Navy Pier. Although they've never sat down and tallied what the cost is to create the garden, Grigsby said they estimate it is anywhere from $35,000-$40,000.

When asked why they do this Grigsby replied "it's a gift to the gardeners in Chicagoland."

"It's a challenge to build a garden in an interior space in March. We've been working 8 to 12 hours a day this week," said Grigsby. "When you see the expressions on people's—especially children's—faces it makes it worth it."

Grigsby and Bergmann have built a greenhouse devoted entirely to their "special garden." They have learned what plants are well suited to the show from experience.

Del Re wins sheriff shootout

By BRENDAN O'NEILL
Staff Reporter

Sheriff Gary Del Re was expected to be in close race with Willie Ray Smith for Lake County Sheriff, but as the voters proved, that just wasn't the case. Del Re won the Republican primary by tallying 29,177 votes to Smith's 18,357, and with no Democratic candidates filing, Del Re retains his office.

Del Re captured 61.4 percent of the votes Tuesday night, leaving Smith with 38.6 percent. The margin was more than many had expected, but Del Re was confident throughout the campaign.

"I felt confident that I would win, and I was confident in a substantial margin," said Del Re, the morning after his victorious night. Reflecting on the previous night's festivities, Del Re was glad to have been a part of such a successful campaign.

"There were so many well-wishers who spent so much time and did a very, very good job," said Del Re. "I'm obviously delighted. It all paid off."

Del Re

Smith kept the campaigning issue-oriented, and Del Re congratulated Smith on running a clean, strong campaign.

"I congratulate Willie Ray Smith on running a tight, issue-oriented campaign," said Del Re.

The polls opened with nearly the same margin as they closed—Del Re held a 61.6%-38.4% lead after 10 percent of the votes had been counted.

The success of the current Sheriff can be attributed to the combination of hard campaigning and the programs and results the Sheriff's office has had over his two-year tenure.

"We've done a good job — an effective job instituting innovative strategies," said Del Re. "Our early retirement program has accounted for a number of promotions and has brought in some new blood and new ideas."

Del Re added that the speculation on low morale within the Sheriff's office was unfounded, but may have contributed to the idea of a close primary.

"We're at the highest level of morale," said Del Re. "Some things (about morale) were misleading."

Crane handles McSweeney

By LEON FILAS
Staff Reporter

He claims he's never seen anything like this in all of his previous campaigns.

"This is a comfort to have the race over, Congressman Phil Crane (R-Dist. 8th) stated in his remarks about winning his re-election bid. "This campaign against me from David McSweeney was a completely negative aspect. I have never seen such a negative campaign from anyone before."

Crane pulled off a huge victory over the challenger for the 8th Congressional District, David McSweeney.

"He was a staunch supporter of mine four years ago, even two years ago," Crane stated. "To suddenly do that is amazing. This is the most negative campaign I have ever seen or ever had to go through."

With no Democratic nomination seated in the 8th district, it seems as though Crane has won another two years in the U.S. House of Representatives.

"They can still declare a candidate, so it's not officially over yet," Crane stated. "We'll just have to wait and see."

He did, however, point to the future of his administration somewhat, pointing to his past voting issues.

"We have to continue to move down the path to keeping this country running," Crane stated. "We need to reduce the national debt and work towards getting the country running like it should be again."

"I am also opposed to us being involved in Iraq," Crane stated. "No American should be put at risk unless the welfare of the country is at stake."

Osmond wins, gives thanks

By KENNETH PATCHEN
Staff Reporter

Colleen Osmond said "yes!" eventually.

Later, her dad, Timothy Osmond, newly minted Republican candidate for District 62 Illinois State Representative, would say "thank you" to a room and district full of his political supporters as they awaited election returns.

Early in the evening, Colleen Osmond said yes to a marriage proposal from Ed Conarchy. With a room filled with music from Scottish pipes, with her arms filled with red roses, with her eyes filled with tears, she looked at a kneeling man before her, wearing a kilt, who asked her to marry him.

She looked at him and said, "Oh, you look good."

At that very moment, however, it did not look good for her father. A television screen showed that Tim Osmond had a total of 65 votes and challenger Paul Petersen had 73.

Regardless, Tim Osmond felt like a winner.

By the end of the evening, Osmond was selected as the Republican candidate to seek incumbent Robert Churchill's seat. He would receive 55.46 percent of the vote to Petersen's 44.54 percent. Osmond received 5,405 votes to 4,340 for Petersen.

Bob Churchill did not seek re-election as District 62 Representative, a position he has held since 1983. Instead, he had sought the position of Secretary of State. Churchill lost to Al Salvi.

"I think positive campaigning was a plus for getting votes in the east," Osmond said of his district-wide campaign. He said that endorsements from Illinois Senator Adeline Geokaris (Dist. 31) and Bob Churchill helped him with voters as did precinct committee workers.

"This is my first time through with a lot of these people," he said. He said that many people and volunteers helped introduce him and place yard signs in the eastern part of the district.

Osmond will make adjustments to his campaign. "I'm going to try to develop a better network of organization," he said. "I'm going to try to get, personally, out to more subdivisions."

Coming into the First Fire Protection District Antioch Fire Department station on Orchard Street to watch election results, however, he knew the evening would be a winner. He knew of the upcoming marriage proposal for his daughter.

Elderly victims of scam artists

Wauconda—An elderly Wauconda couple was robbed of $1,400 this past weekend by scam artists who claimed to be tree-trimmers, police said. Both victims are in their early 80s, police said, and were the targets of three men who approached their home in the 600 block of Orton Avenue at around 2:45 p.m. March 14, police said.

While a Hispanic man kept the elderly man busy, taking him around to the back of the house, two other men went throughout the house looking for valuables and cash.

They found $1,400, which they took after being scared off by the elderly woman, who was sleeping in a bedroom they entered and suddenly woke up, police said. The suspects left in a black utility-type truck with no identification painted on either side.

Little Lotto winner feels blessed

Mundelein—Village resident Steven M. Bedard is a man who tries to live a positive life, believing in the adage, "What goes around comes around."

"And so far it has worked," he said. "I try to be positive, think positive." This positive aura Bedard has created paid off two months ago, when Bedard's numbers came up in the Illinois Little Lotto game, giving him a payoff of $21,072.

Bedard won on Jan. 21, having all five of his numbers matching the numbers chosen that day. That money has already been spent, with $12,000 invested in the stock market for retirement purposes and $3,000 evenly divided among six family members.

Police net vet Ket burglars

Antioch—Antioch Police and Lake County Sheriffs have cooperated in the arrest of two people in connection with veterinary clinic burglaries in an unincorporated area near Antioch.

Lake County Sheriff Gary Del Re announced the Feb. 17, 1998 arrest of Nathaniel Gonzalez, 19, of Palatine, in connection with March 19 and June 18, 1996 burglaries near Antioch. Second suspect Gregory Patzer, 19, of Crystal Lake already has been sentenced to four years incarceration with the Illinois Department of Corrections for Lake Zurich animal clinic burglaries in 1997.

Stolen from the Lakes Animal Clinic, 222 West Route 173, Antioch, were animal tranquilizers known as Ketamine, Ketaset, Telazol and Diazepam.

Gonzalez now is in the custody of the Lake County Jail and remanded on a $100,000 bond. His next court date is March 26 for pretrial motions.

Antioch Police Officers investigated break-ins at the Lakes Animal Clinic on Aug. 21, Oct. 5, and Oct. 21, 1996.

Detectives James Ruth and Craig Somerville were involved in the investigation for the Antioch Police Department.

Persons who may have information about this case are asked to contact the Sheriff's Criminal Investigations Division at 847-360-5850.

'Celebrate Arts' lists new artists

Lake Villa—New events have been added to "Celebrate the Arts" at Lake Villa Public Library Saturday, March 21 from 10 a.m. to 3 p.m.

"We have plenty of room for everyone," said Liz Rifkin. "I hope we draw people from all over the place."

The library also hopes to draw in some long overdue books at the same time. Patrons may return overdue library materials and skip payment of fines on Saturday.

Joining the celebration of the arts is the Craven Academy of Performing Arts. They will perform at 10 a.m. and 11:30 p.m. for an hour.

From 1:15 to 2 p.m., McNulty Irish Dancers will perform. Peter J. Palombi School's The Sound Waves will perform from 2:15 to 2:45 p.m.

Although many events are of strong interest to children, there are artists and performers who have special appeal to adult family members.

Cole tops 60 percent of vote

Grayslake—"I am no longer a freshman Lake County Board member," Sandy Cole exclaimed.

A Celtic Proposal

Dressed in a kilt with a bagpipe player playing in the background, Ed Conarchy, of Hainesville, proposed to Colleen Osmond, of Hainesville, at the St. Patrick's Day election event held at the Antioch Fire Station. Colleen Osmond is the daughter of candidate Tim Osmond who was on hand along with Linda Pedersen and Adeline Geo-Karis. Conarchy wanted to make it clear for the record that Colleen Osmond said "Yes."—Photo by Lynn Gunnarson Dahlstrom

Cole will embark on a four-year term as representative of Dist. 11 of central Lake County thanks to a 63.9 percent of the vote Tuesday. The race was for second place. Paul Schmidt, of Wildwood narrowly defeated Donald Gossett, 498-493.

"The message continues even more clearer that people want the county to go in a new direction. Let's do it," Cole said.

"I am glad the Unified Development Ordinance was not passed yet so the new people on board will have a chance to contribute," said Cole.

"The biggest thing is we supported the quality-of-life issues and we backed it up," she said.

Cole was pleased with the tone of the campaign.

Westerman earns chance at election

Gurnee—After what he views as a successful freshman year on the Lake County Board, Al Westerman is ready to tackle the challenges of a new term.

Voters gave Westerman a chance to earn a full term to office in Tuesday's Republican primary as he beat Mark Ratfelders. He won by a 69 to 30 percent margin. He will face Glenn Ryback in November.

"The turning point in this race was when he (Ratfelders) came out against a referendum for the Lake County Forest Preserve District," Westerman said.

Westerman thought he had a good chance to win the nomination in the final days.

"They, and I do not know who 'they' is, did a phone survey for Ratfelders this weekend. When they did not follow it up with a mailer on Monday, I knew I was about 10 points ahead," Westerman said.

Westerman, was pleased that voters kept the quality of life issues in the forefront, and returned himself and similar thinking Republicans for either the general election in November or four-year terms.

"We stand for public service - for working with the people," Westerman said.

District 7 serves Warren and part of Waukegan township.

Trial of Assistant Fire Chief begins

Libertyville—The trial of Kenneth Norton, the Libertyville Assistant Fire Chief accused of striking cyclist Mark Capistrant, County Fairgrounds, while driving under the influence, in June 1997, begins Monday March 23.

The night of the accident, Capistrant was riding west, along Route 120, just west of Route 45, at dusk, when witnesses say Norton's Dodge Ram truck struck Capistrant at around 8:38 p.m., as he peddled along the shoulder.

Capistrant died as a result of massive injuries he sustained in the accident. The trial is set to begin after months of delays.

Norton, 43, is a 20-year employee of the Village of Libertyville. He has been on suspension since the accident. Norton is pleading not guilty to charges of reckless homicide and two misdemeanor charges for failure to stop after an accident involving death and failure to render aid following an accident involving death.

Capistrant, left behind a wife, Patricia, and three children, Rebecca, 15, Shawn, 12 and Tyler, 10.

'MDA Lock-up' captures folks

Lindenhurst—Local business, political, and personable people were rounded up and thrown in jail March 5 pending a bail bond hearing within one hour of their incarceration.

Arrested individuals include Bob Ringa, President of the Lindenhurst-Lake Villa Chamber of Commerce, Lake Villa Township Highway Commissioner Jim Jorgensen, and Amoco Station Manager Theresa Kent. A total of 97 people were expected to spend time on the telephones.

Participants were released from the jail at RJs Eatery, 1913 East Grand Avenue, within an hour if they had raised $400 bail money which they could then donate to the Muscular Dystrophy Association.

McLaughlin said, "We provide services to approximately 7,500 families." This includes diagnostic and testing services, medical care, equipment, education, support groups, and camp programs.

"Lake Villa-Lindenhurst is a particularly special place for us," she said. There is a summer MDA Camp held at Camp Hastings.

The MDA Lock-up experience is a major national fund raising effort by the Association. However it is done on a community by community basis.

Female ski mask robber arrested

Fox Lake—According to reports compiled by the Fox Lake Police, a woman wearing a ski mask, early Friday morning was arrested for trying to commit a robbery at the Fox Lake Currency Exchange, located at 14 East Grand Avenue in Fox Lake.

According to reports, the woman, Margaret Coleman, 46, of 7003 Prospect Place in Spring Grove, was waiting in the parking lot of the Currency Exchange at 6:38 a.m., awaiting the arrival of the teller.

When the teller arrived, she jumped out of her car with the ski mask on and a can of mace, and told the teller to hurry inside the building, pushing the teller in.

Coleman told the teller to open the safe of the building, when the teller tripped an alarm.

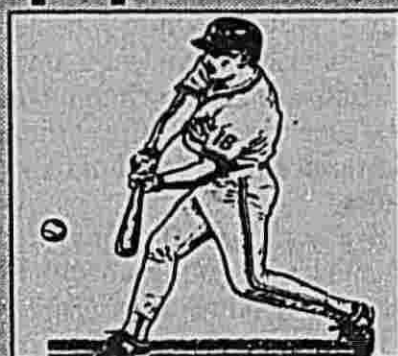

The woman fled the building and was nabbed in the parking lot outside of the currency exchange. She was arrested and transported to Lake County Jail, where she awaits bond.

Democratic leaders itching for November

Even before the votes were tallied in Tuesday's primary election, Democratic leaders in Lake County were looking forward to the real thing—the November general election. They're itching to send popular Linda Hess into battle to recapture the County Clerk's office, now held by Republican Willard Helander. The Democrats also have a bright new face with a well known political name—Bob Sabonjian, who is challenging County Board incumbent Jim Stanczak in a Waukegan district. Stanczak also is a well known political name.

What will be interesting is how Democratic leaders play out the guessing game on whether they will fill eight unopposed County Board positions, and if they choose to let ageless State Senator Adeline Geo-Karis (R-Zion) run unopposed this fall.

They might let Geo-Karis get reelected without a challenge, but don't look for them to take a pass on the north county 62nd District seat in the General Assembly left open when Bob Churchill chose to run for higher office. A hard-working Democrat with moderate views could win this fall in the 62nd.

Two state parks entice local campers

Illinois has one of the best state park systems in the nation. Two of the parks are little more than "just around the corner" for more Lake County residents. Count that as a blessing. Chain O' Lakes State Park, 8916 Wilbur Rd., Spring Grove, reflects the woods and water marking an earlier time in this locality. Illinois Beach State Park, at the Zion lake front, is a pristine example of Lake Michigan dunes with a distinct flora and fauna found nowhere else.

Both parks afford nature lovers an opportunity for close-up enjoyment of outdoors life. This is the time of year, by the way, to make reservations for camping sites. Besides regular camping and utility fees, a mere $5 charge will hold your reservation. Campsites can be reserved for up to 14 nights. Chain O' Lakes Park also has shelters.

We are always amazed at the number of local people who enjoy the wonders of "camping in the wild" only a short distance from home. Why spend a lot of money getting to and from some remote corner? Classify them as intelligent. Ah, only in Lake County!

Farm Bureau sends new land policy signal

By endorsing several land preservationists and avowed open space candidates in the March primary, the Lake County Farm Bureau sent signals of adopting a more mainstream attitude toward growth and development, in short, resign in the rush toward urbanization.

In a pre-election news release, Farm Bureau leaders took pains to spell out their stance on land use policy in Lake County. They stated: "We are concerned with open space and that Lake County Forest Preserve acquire land through a fair process from willing sellers and pay a fair market value for the land. We are concerned with development and that the new development address the need for drainage and runoff to be properly routed away from existing residences and farm fields along with proper impact fees for additional children in our schools and cars on our overburdened road system. Also that developers properly follow the zoning laws in our county and villages and reflect the rural environment we would all like to preserve."

Well spoken. If the campaign news release reflects long standing policy, then so be it. But the viewpoint sounds new. Whatever, the statement comes as sweet music and a telling expression from an influential and highly respected organization.

Scrub income tax, Porter tells electors

BILL SCHROEDER
Publisher

Congressman John Porter, the mild-mannered North Shore moderate Republican who represents a big chunk of Lake County in the U.S. Congress, touched on an issue that could ignite the electorate and propel GOP candidates to victory this fall and recapturing the presidency in 2000.

At a political breakfast in Libertyville, Porter was asked about overhauling the outdated, unfair, despised federal income tax system. Porter didn't equivocate, replying that he favors a federal tax based on consumption.

Yes, yes and yes! Republicans could gallop to victory on that one issue. Lighten up on lightweight Monica. To heck with the president's sex habits. Backburner a balanced budget. Hang Hussein. (Not a bad idea). It's taxation stupid!

Porter assured his audience that Republicans are doing wonderful things in Washington. "But the message isn't getting out," he asserted. The dignified lawmaker said that the economy is so strong that it transcends everything happening in Washington. "People think everything is wonderful."

Distracted by fat bellies and fat pocketbooks, Americans ignore that the combined federal, state and local tax burden of the average middle class family is nearly 40 percent of their income. Clinton, whose deplorable behavior gets a pass from a majority of Americans, is the greatest taxer in history.

While the economy zings along high, wide and handsome, a majority of the citizenry doesn't fathom that present taxation coupled with a dip in the economy could spell big time trouble. We hope Congressman Porter, who has a well earned reputation for killing worthless and counterproductive federal programs, picks up the tax reform cudgel for the general election.

Back to things closer to home: Porter says that the big change in Washington is acceptance of the reality that local government is more important these days. "Washington is a supplemental player," Porter called the change of attitude within the Beltway "profound." Every governmental program, thanks to Republican leadership, is getting result tested every day in every way.

Ever the centrist, Porter made a surprising observation about the political process—that the current primary system doesn't serve the country well, that it doesn't produce the kind of leaders our nation needs today.

If Porter means that fringe thinkers who appeal to special interest groups get nominated, he's on target. Getting elected with "edge" issues is another thing. It's reality, nonetheless, that mainstream positions typically start from far out.

Is scrapping the income tax a far out concept?

New Gurnee threat entertain next village

The other day I met a woman from Antioch who said that she read my column. She said that she liked it, which I appreciated, and she suggested that I write something about the concerns of many in her community that the village maintain its friendly, small-town character.

It brought to my mind how much some villages in Lake County have changed, never to return. Let's highlight just one—the village of Gurnee, in particular, and Warren Township on the broader scale.

I am not one to say that you can't beat the "good old days." Time marches on, times change, and you make the best of it. But, there is something to be said to the fact that those who are the policy-makers can control change, and sometimes the changes are too extreme and too rapid. It's like a snowball rolling downhill.

Yes, I remember the good old days of Gurnee and Warren Township. I remember the rural landscape, the fields of farms and the animals that roamed them, the small businesses, the well-kept residences, and the friendly neighbors.

Just 30 years ago, the Gurnee Police Dept. had about four officers, Police Chief Oren Anderson, Sgt. Bob Carr, and a couple of patrolmen. The fire department was a group of very dedicated volunteers led by Fire Chief Sam Dada. I wonder what Sam thinks when he revisits the area to see two fire stations and a large complement of firefighters.

The first major change in Gurnee's landscape came with the theme park. To hear the promoters, you would have thought that the local taxpayers would be forever more free of paying taxes. Of course, they are paying more, and forever. The theme park wasn't as devastating as it could have been,

SEEING IT THROUGH

but it was the start of changing the character of the village of Gurnee.

After the theme park, there were policy decisions that radically changed the face of Gurnee and the township. Annexations that broadened the village borders and zoning changes that enhanced the interests of large scale developers guaranteed that Gurnee would be on the fast track for major developers. Then came Gurnee Mills and a stream of commercial developments, and there is more to come with rows of car dealers, convention centers, and who knows what else.

I watched Gurnee Mayor Richard Welton on local TV when he appeared at a "Power Breakfast" and he said that at least the residential development in Gurnee is at a "critical mass." I guess that he wanted to allay the fears of present residents that there would be more homes built. Isn't that too bad—they're running out of room.

Mayor Welton said that there is much more to look forward on commercial development. That not running out of space for well, I would suggest to Mayor that if he believes that residential development is at a "critical mass," the commercial development is just about at a "mess." In fact, the woman who asked me at the topic of over-development that she was worried happening in Gurnee, I would skip to here.

What bothers me about the same fear about bigness is

What will Churchill do next?

The luck of the Irish was not with Lake Villa Republican Bob Churchill Tuesday night. He not only lost his bid for Secretary of State in the Republican primary, but he also lost his bid for the same position in the Democratic primary.

Churchill, who has been in the political arena since 1994, is now looking for a way to make a name for himself in the Republican primary.

Churchill is now looking for a way to make a name for himself in the Republican primary.

The Wauconda attorney topped Bob Churchill to gain the Republican nod for Secretary of State in Illinois during Tuesday's primary.

Salvi says despite being outspent he believes he has a rapport with voters, the only endorsements that count.

"I'd like to make a habit of winning in November as well," he joked.

Salvi shared the election victory spotlight with Congressman Phil Crane, who also won his primary race.

Both celebrated at the Concord Banquet Facility in Kildeer just south of where Salvi grew up in Lake Zurich.

Salvi will have another reason to celebrate in the next week or so. He and wife, Kathleen Keller

If it's a girl she'll be the namesake of Kathy's mother, Janice Ann. If it's a boy, he'll be Albert the III. The Salvys currently have two girls and three boys. Best wishes, gang.

Carol Calabrese celebrated her primary victory in the offices of one of her rivals, Libertyville Twp. Supervisor ET "Mike" Graham.

Calabrese and Graham had once been allies, but his move to oust her in a three-way race for the Dist. 15 county board seat iced their friendship.

Graham was conciliatory in defeat, saying he hopes with a more pro-environment board open spaces efforts in the township will be better received by the county board.

Cluttered desk is treasure chest

The great actor Sir Laurence Olivier said, "The secret is to make sure the technique doesn't show."

The newspaper curmudgeon H.L. Mencken wrote, "The job of a columnist is to wait until the battle is over, come down out of the hills and shoot the wounded."

Commentator George Will explains, "A New York Minute is the time from when the light turns green until the guy behind you beeps his horn."

Those gems were salvaged this week from my humble little office, which family and friends call the Bermuda Triangle North. Countless pithy notes and quotes, wisdom and witticisms, have disappeared in there as I cling to the concept that a cluttered work station is the badge of a writer, while anyone who can see the top of his desk should get a job.

No ships or airplanes have been lost in my "Devil's Triangle" but that's probably because none has tried to travel through.

Well, it's time for the annual spring cleaning of my Fibber McGee's chaos and precious pieces of prose are surfacing.

Cartoonist Charles Schulz: "Just remember, once you're over the hill, you begin to pick up speed."

Baseball star Don Baylor, who was hit 36 times by pitched balls: "Well, it's not the kind of record I dreamed about as a youngster."

Journalist Eric Sevareid: "A consultant is an ordinary guy more than 50 miles from home."

Barry Goldwater: "I like to see women elected. They are closer to life. Eighty-three percent of the money is spent by women. They understand they can't spend more than the old man brings home."

Allowance takes spark of burning rules

It is an ordinance that village officials have been a long time in burning. It is a rule that has been a long time in burning. It is a rule that has been a long time in burning.

Fire pits are much more than small campfires and a few marshmallows with the kiddies. These large metal pits and portable stoves create smoke and late night party noise. When left unattended, they are not only a nuisance but a hazard as well. There is no cooking involved. The burning pits sole purpose is to create fire and smoke.

Here's the irony. The village prohibits burning the burning of leaves and yard trimmings, such as small limbs and twigs, yet allows fire pits. Just what do you suppose people are burning in those fire pits? Local hardware stores and home centers must be cheering as they anticipate the outdoor fire pits flying off their shelves. It's an easy way to circumvent the new burning ordinance. And, trustees created this loophole that weakens the very intention of the original law, which was to begin lessening air pollution.

The problem with fire pits is just starting to simmer since the produce has only been in this area a few years. If Gurnee won't prohibit them, fire pits will need restrictions, just as leaf burning had, so that the safety and health of all residents are not comprised.

Force excessive

The spectacle staged by the Lake County Sheriff's Department in Tower Lakes, Monday,

March 9, is a sad indictment of what our country has become.

The excuse of the SWAT team being used because of the weather was weak at best. Were they expecting a "Simpson" chase?

It is an indictment of the media-all lined up, law enforcement and their Port-a-potty and especially, of professional sports and pressure on players.

Thanks to an understanding mediator, a sad situation was resolved, and hopefully, a troubled young man can re-coup.

My best wishes to Alonzo Spellman and my admiration to Mike Singletary.

Democratic leaders itching for November

Even before the votes were tallied in Tuesday's primary election, Democratic leaders in Lake County were looking forward to the real thing—the November general election. They're itching to send popular Linda Hess into battle to recapture the County Clerk's office, now held by Republican Willard Helander. The Democrats also have a bright new face with a well known political name—Bob Sabonjian, who is challenging County Board incumbent Jim Stanczak in a Waukegan district. Stanczak also is a well known political name.

What will be interesting is how Democratic leaders play out the guessing game on whether they will fill eight unopposed County Board positions, and if they choose to let ageless State Senator Adeline Geo-Karis (R-Zion) run unopposed this fall.

They might let Geo-Karis get reelected without a challenge, but don't look for them to take a pass on the north county 62nd District seat in the General Assembly left open when Bob Churchill chose to run for higher office. A hard-working Democrat with moderate views could win this fall in the 62nd.

Two state parks entice local campers

Illinois has one of the best state park systems in the nation. Two of the parks are little more than "just around the corner" for more Lake County residents. Count that as a blessing. Chain O'Lakes State Park, 8916 Wilmot Rd., Spring Grove, reflects the woods and water marking an earlier time in this locality. Illinois Beach State Park, at the Zion lake front, is a pristine example of Lake Michigan dunes with a distinct flora and fauna found nowhere else.

Both parks afford nature lovers an opportunity for close-up enjoyment of outdoors life. This is the time of year, by the way, to make reservations for camping sites. Besides regular camping and utility fees, a mere $5 charge will hold your reservation. Campsites can be reserved for up to 14 nights. Chain O'Lakes Park also has shelters.

We are always amazed at the number of local people who enjoy the wonders of "camping in the wild" only a short distance from home. Why spend a lot of money getting to and from some remote corner? Classify them as intelligent. Ah, only in Lake County!

Farm Bureau sends new land policy signal

By endorsing several land preservationists and avowed open space candidates in the March primary, the Lake County Farm Bureau sent signals of adopting a more mainstream attitude toward growth and development; in short, reign in the rush toward urbanization.

In a pre-election news release, Farm Bureau leaders took pains to spell out their stance on land use policy in Lake County. They stated: "We are concerned with open space and that Lake County Forest Preserve acquire land through a fair process from willing sellers and pay a fair market value for the land. We are concerned with development and that the new development address the need for drainage and runoff to be properly routed away from existing residences and farm fields along with proper impact fees for additional children in our schools and cars on our overburdened road system. Also that developers properly follow the zoning laws in our county and villages and reflect the rural environment we would all like to preserve."

Well spoken. If the campaign news release reflects long standing policy, then so be it. But the viewpoint sounds new. Whatever, the statement comes as sweet music and a telling expression from an influential and highly respected organization.

VIEWPOINT

Scrub income tax, Porter tells electors

BILL SCHROEDER
Publisher

Congressman John Porter, the mild-mannered North Shore moderate Republican who represents a big chunk of Lake County in the U.S. Congress, touched on an issue that could ignite the electorate and propel GOP candidates to victory this fall and recapturing the presidency in 2000.

At a political breakfast in Libertyville, Porter was asked about overhauling the outdated, unfair, despised federal income tax system. Porter didn't equivocate, replying that he favors a federal tax based on consumption.

Yes, yes and yes!

Republicans could gallop to victory on that one issue. Lighten up on lightweight Monica. To heck with the president's sex habits. Backburner a balanced budget. Hang Hussein. (Not a bad idea). It's taxation stupid!

Porter assured his audience that Republicans are doing wonderful things in Washington. "But the message isn't getting out," he asserted. The dignified lawmaker said that the economy is so strong that it transcends everything happening in Washington. "People think everything is wonderful."

Distracted by fat bellies and fat pocketbooks, Americans ignore that the combined federal, state and local tax burden of the average middle class family is nearly 40 percent of their income. Clinton, whose deplorable behavior gets a pass from a majority of Americans, is the greatest taxer in history.

While the economy zings along high, wide and handsome, a majority of the citizenry doesn't fathom that present taxation coupled with a dip in the economy could spell big time trouble. We hope Congressman Porter, who has a well earned reputation for killing worthless and counterproductive federal programs, picks up the tax reform cudgel for the general election.

Back to things closer to home: Porter says that the big change in Washington is acceptance of the reality that local government is more important these days. "Washington is a supplemental player."

Porter called the change of attitude within the Beltway "profound." Every governmental program, thanks to Republican leadership, is getting result tested every day in every way.

Ever the centrist, Porter made a surprising observation about the political process—that the current primary system doesn't serve the country well, that it doesn't produce the kind of leaders our nation needs today.

If Porter means that fringe thinkers who appeal to special interest groups get nominated, he's on target. Getting elected with "edge" issues is another thing. It's reality, nonetheless, that mainstream positions typically start from far out.

Is scrapping the income tax a far out concept?

New Gurnee threat entertain next village

SEEING IT THROUGH
John S. Matijevich

The other day I met a woman from Antioch who said that she read my column. She said that she liked it, which I appreciated, and she suggested that I write something about the concerns of many in her community that the village maintain its friendly, small-town character.

It brought to my mind how much some villages in Lake County have changed, never to return. Let's highlight just one—the village of Gurnee, in particular, and Warren Township on the broader scale.

I am not one to say that you can't beat the "good old days." Time marches on, times change, and you make the best of it. But, there is something to be said to the fact that those who are the policy-makers can control change, and sometimes the changes are too extreme and too rapid. It's like a snowball rolling downhill.

Yes, I remember the good old days of Gurnee and Warren Township. I remember the rural landscape, the fields of farms and the animals that roamed them, the small businesses, the well-kept residences, and the friendly neighbors.

Just 30 years ago, the Gurnee Police Dept. had about four officers; Police Chief Oren Anderson, Sgt. Bob Carr, and a couple of patrolmen. The fire department was a group of very dedicated volunteers led by Fire Chief Sam Dada. I wonder what Sam thinks when he revisits the area to see two fire stations and a large complement of firefighters.

The first major change in Gurnee's landscape came with the theme park. To hear the promoters, you would have thought that the local taxpayers would be forever free of paying taxes. Of course, they are paying more, and forever. The theme park wasn't as devastating as it could have been, but it was the start of changing the character of the village of Gurnee.

After the theme park, there were policy decisions that radically changed the face of Gurnee and the township. Annexations that broadened the village borders and zoning changes that enhanced the interests of large scale developers guaranteed that Gurnee would be on the fast track for major developers. Then came Gurnee Mills and a stream of commercial developments, and there is more to come with rows of car dealers, convention centers, and who knows what else.

I watched Gurnee Mayor Richard Welton on local TV when he appeared at a "Power Breakfast" and he said that at least the residential development in Gurnee is at a "critical mass." I guess that he wanted to allay the fears of present residents that there would be more homes built. Isn't that too bad—they're running out of room.

Mayor Welton said that there is much more to look forward on commercial development. They're not running out of space for that. Well, I would suggest to Mayor Welton that if he believes that residential development is at a "critical mass," the commercial development is just about at a "critical mess." In fact, the woman from Antioch who asked me to write about the topic of over-development, said that she was worried that what is happening in Gurnee will infestiously skip to her area.

What bothers me is that some of the same people who preach about bigness in government are the same people who cause it by shilling for the special interests who don't give a hoot on how much their developments will backfire in costs to taxpayers. Besides the money costs to taxpayers, there is another cost that is even more important. That cost is quality of life.

Quality of life. Take it away and you never get it back. I've written about over-development that has already happened and we can't retrace our steps. But, let's think about a proposal that is being considered for future development. It's being called the Entertainment Village. See, Gurnee, they even want to put another name to your village.

How can you turn them down? You've heard them. Gurnee will receive a recurring yearly surplus of $2.5 million a year once the project reaches maturity and the county is promised a revenue bonanza. Like the high pitched salesmen used to say, "Have I got you a deal."

Can you imagine the gridlock that such a development will cause? Kiss your quality of life goodbye. Not only that, who do you think will be paying for the highway interchange, the widening of Washington Street and all of the necessary infrastructure needed long before the project turns a shovel?

People in Lake County are getting weary of the consequences of over-development. It's showing in local elections where the pro-development candidates have lost in major upsets.

Mayor Welton should take a page from what happened in his own business ventures. You can move too fast; you can over-develop. He and other local leaders in Lake County should do more to preserve the quality of life for the residents of the county rather than working feverishly for special interests looking to get as much as they can from Lake County.

What will Churchill do next?

The luck of the Irish was not with Lake Villa Republican Bob Churchill Tuesday night. He not only lost his bid for Secretary of State in the Republican primary, he also lost his post as precinct committeeman in Lake Villa Township. He was defeated by Suzi Schmidt by about 20 votes.

"I wouldn't have challenged him if they (the Republican party) had given me a precinct committeeman job when vacancies opened up, but they wouldn't," Schmidt said. She lost a similar challenge to Churchill in 1994.

David vs. Goliath Round III

Al Salvi seems to be making a habit of ousting Republican king pins in primary elections.

The Wauconda attorney toppled Bob Churchill to gain the Republican nod for Secretary of State in Illinois during Tuesday's primary.

Salvi says despite being outspent he believes he has a rapport with voters, the only endorsements that count.

"I'd like to make a habit of winning in November as well," he joked.

Salvi shared the election victory spotlight with Congressman Phil Crane, who also won his primary race.

Both celebrated at the Concorde Banquet Facility in Kildeer just south of where Salvi grew up in Lake Zurich.

Salvi will have another reason to celebrate in the next week or so. He and wife, Kathleen Keller

Salvi, are expecting their sixth children by month's end.

If it's a girl she'll be the namesake of Kathy's mother, Janice Ann. If it's a boy, he'll be Albert the III. The Salvys currently have two girls and three boys. Best wishes, gang.

Carol Calabresa celebrated her primary victory in the offices of one of her rivals, Libertyville Twp. Supervisor RT. "Mike" Graham.

Calabresa and Graham had once been allies, but his move to oust her in a three-way race for the Dist. 15 county board seat iced their friendship.

Graham was conciliatory in defeat, saying he hopes with a more pro-environment board open spaces efforts in the township will be better received by the county board.

Cluttered desk is treasure chest

The great actor Sir Laurence Olivier said, "The secret is to make sure the technique doesn't show."

The newspaper curmudgeon H.L. Mencken wrote, "The job of a columnist is to wait until the battle is over, come down out of the hills and shoot the wounded."

Commentator George Will explains, "A New York Minute is the time from when the light turns green until the guy behind you beeps his horn."

Those gems were salvaged this week from my humble little office, which family and friends call the Bermuda Triangle North. Countless pithy notes and quotes, wisdom and witticisms, have disappeared in there as I cling to the concept that a cluttered work station is the badge of a writer, while anyone who can see the top of his desk should get a job.

No ships or airplanes have been lost in my "Devil's Triangle" but that's probably because none has tried to travel through.

Well, it's time for the annual spring cleaning of my Fibber McGee's chaos and precious pieces of prose are surfacing.

One of the most prestigious reference books, of course, is Bartlett's Familiar Quotations. Here then are some of Pfarr's Less Familiar and Perhaps Even Forgotten Quotations:

The comedian Gallagher: "Let's put an end to the foolishness of wieners coming in packages of 10 and buns in packs of eight."

Cartoonist Charles Schulz: "Just remember, once you're over the hill, you begin to pick up speed."

Baseball star Don Baylor, who was hit 36 times by pitched balls: "Well, it's not the kind of record I dreamed about as a youngster."

Baseball funnyman Bob Uecker, about the many times he was dropped from league teams: "They broke it to me gently. The manager would come up to me and say they don't allow visitors in the clubhouse."

Bartlett's Familiar Quotations cites 2,500 famous people in its hefty 1,500 pages, but it doesn't have these gems:

Kathie Lee Gifford's advice from her father: "Find something you love, then find a way to make a living at it."

Journalist Eric Sevareid: "A consultant is an ordinary guy more than 50 miles from home."

Barry Goldwater: "I like to see women elected. They are closer to life. Eighty-three percent of the money is spent by women. They understand they can't spend more than the old man brings home."

Comedian Mort Sahl: "Beverly Hills is very exclusive. For instance, the fire department won't make house calls."

Actor Robert Redford, about Hollywood: "I often want to just opt out of this rat race and buy another hunk of Utah."

A soldier from Chicago, fighting in the Persian Gulf war: "Hey, if I go home, it's worse than this."

Author unknown: "Marriage is wonderful. Without it, husbands and wives would have to fight with strangers."

Also anonymous: "A liberal is a conservative who hasn't been mugged."

And: "A true perfectionist eats his alphabet soup in alphabetical order."

That is only the tip of my hodgepodge. I could go on and on, but as Mason said to Dixon, "We have to draw the line somewhere."

Fire pit allowance takes spark out of burning rules

What good is an ordinance if village officials dilute it? What could have been a forward-thinking, strong anti-burning ordinance in Gurnee now has little teeth, thanks to the recent inclusion of outdoor fire pits. It's a shame that Gurnee backed down and weakened its burning ordinance. Outdoor fire pits are a growing hazard to clean air and residents' safety.

Fire pits are much more than small campfires and a few marshmallows with the kiddies. These large metal pits and portable stoves create smoke and late night party noise. When left unattended, they are not only a nuisance but a hazard as well. There is no cooking involved. The burning pits sole purpose is to create fire and smoke.

Here's the irony: The village prohibits burning the burning of leaves and yard debris, such as small limbs and twigs, yet allows fire pits. Just what do you suppose people are burning in those fire pits? Local hardware stores and home centers must be cheering as they anticipate the outdoor fire pits flying off their shelves. It's an easy way to circumvent the new burning ordinance. And, trustees created this loophole that weakens the very intention of the original law, which was to begin lessening air pollution.

The problem with fire pits is just starting to simmer since the produce has only been in this area a few years. If Gurnee won't prohibit them, fire pits will need restrictions, just as leaf burning had, so that the safety and health of all residents are not comprised.

Force excessive

The spectacle staged by the Lake County Sheriff's Department in Tower Lakes, Monday,

March 9, is a sad indictment of what our country has become.

The excuse of the SWAT team being used because of the weather was weak at best. Were they expecting a "Simpson" chase?

It is an indictment of the media-all lined up, law enforcement and their Port-a-potty and especially, of professional sports and pressure on players.

Thanks to an understanding mediator, a sad situation was resolved, and hopefully, a troubled young man can re-coup.

My best wishes to Alonzo Spellman and my admiration to Mike Singletary.

We need light

I wonder, why aren't the street lights turned on on south Rte. 12. It is so dark. And why aren't the fall decorations taken down yet from the posts on Rte. 12 and Grand?

Help us please

Phil Crane has refused to help us with the airplane noise over our community. He never holds town meetings and he doesn't know anything about us. He is more concerned about the city and areas other than his own.

Over and over

I want to know why the radio station keeps playing the same songs over and over again, every five to ten minutes. And when you call the radio station is always busy. I think something should be done about it.

Warning

To East Loon Lake and Sequoit Creek users, be aware that 70 acres of Sonar herbicide is to be applied to East Loon Lake to kill 100 acres of weeds in April and May. Lake users should have a right to know.

Give them tickets

I have a big peeve with a store in Round Lake. Every time I go down there, they have handicapped parking spaces for people who can't get around. I understand that. But you have the people who pull into these places, flip down the card and run into the store. Round Lake should start giving these people tickets.

You hit me!

I want to thank the low life who hit my car in the parking lot on Friday, March 6. If I knew who you were I would gladly do the same thing to you. You have no courtesy, common sense and are a rotten driver.

A Chicago paper showed a Williams Park resident digging a pit, pumping water someplace. Since this is illegal to pump water into a lake, what is she doing?

One would believe that last week's Grayslake headlines were about

Bad judgement

I live in Lake Zurich and it seems our street department can't seem to use their judgment correctly. Usually they are running up and down the street with plows at all times, and this morning, when we need them, we haven't seem them at all. There is a lot of slush, and this seems to keep happening in ex-trems.

Bad and Good

I would just like to say that bad officials are elected by good citizens who do not vote.

House numbers

I like to give credit where credit is due. Approximately two months ago at 7:30 a.m. someone knocked on my door. This happened to be the Antioch rescue squad looking for house numbers. I went out to assist, but did not know many of the new members by name, and then realized that many of the homes didn't properly display their home numbers. The original knock at my door was none other, then Tim Osmond, of the rescue squad. I would like to say he has really been giving it a try in different areas also.

Good sense

Congratulations for State representative Mark Beaubien, for having the good sense not to waste taxpayer's money on the crackpot who identified himself as of unincorporated Lake County in the March 6 issue. This person is obvious in his efforts to launch a vendetta on someone he used to live with. And is using vague generalizations that implying welfare fraud to advance his agenda against one person. It is encouraging that Mr. Beaubien had the good sense to see through childish comments as would any other clear thinking person.

Tax money wasted

I am a concerned citizen of Warren Township and am wondering how the new assessor can get a van for assessor help, out in the field, yet the employees are driving it home at night, and using it on the weekends. Is the tax payer's money going to waste again, by going to the Assessors office?

Anything goes...

I am from Antioch and was born and raised on a nearby dairy farm 80-plus years. I have worked hard all my life for a living, seen all the USA and many parts of the world. Also, I saw how we used to have laws to control us human beings and the standards we lived by. At present, our president approval rate is so high, and I wonder why. Regardless of the economy, I think our last two generations don't care about morals and many of the people live by the stand that they don't care how the president carries on. Sort of like "anything goes" is the way to live.

History is important

Because the weather has been bad, we have more time to read the papers about our history. There is so much here in the Mundelein area. It is nice to hear people talking about barns and seeing the photos. I am wondering when we are going to have an American Indian month? They are such a big part of our country. There have been so many movies lately about them. What about a Scandinavian month?

I would like to thank the bus drivers in district 41, for getting the children to and from school on the snowy Monday, March 9. I think they did a terrific job.

"Rah" for them

A parcel post company has just announced that it will be bringing in more flights to O'Hare airport. These flights will probably be at night and over the suburbs. Like it isn't loud enough already. People are already being woken up. O'Hare is controlled by the city of Chicago and they think it is great because now welfare mothers and low income people will have more jobs. Well "rah" for them. How about us, who have the airplanes flying over us, and can't get any sleep. Why do we have to give up our sleep so a couple thousand people can have jobs? That is how big corporations brainwash us.

Congratulations

I would like to congratulate the Antioch cheerleaders and boys basketball team. The cheerleaders competed at ISU and took twelfth at the state level on March 7. They should be congratulated on their hard work and dedication. The boy's basketball team did very well this year in the regionals. They played hard and really deserved to win. We should be proud of these young people in the community of Antioch, Lake Villa and Lindenhurst.

Thanks a million

I would like to thank the person who turned in my car keys at the grocery store in Round Lake Beach. The next day when I inquired about them, I was told some thoughtful person turned them in. Thanks a million!

Your crime!

Stop and think. Would you like to incriminate yourself when you go and vote? The average politician is honest for about one month after being elected. They see the big money involved with government operations. You have helped put a crook in office. This makes you guilty, because you helped them put their hand in the till by voting for them. Think before you waste that precious vote. Check them out first.

Antioch

Pencil pushers

I am reading about all the traffic problems in Lake Zurich, around Rte. 12 and Rte. 22. I think the politicians should get out from behind their desks, stop their pencil pushing and go out there and see what is going on. They should be going down to Springfield and raise a little heck, instead of writing letters. Try to get the lamebrains to change the lights and fix the problem.

Wauconda

Handicapped parking

I think the Round Lake police department should make more of an effort to enforce the handicapped parking spaces at the Metra station. My wife has a handicapped parking tag, and tries to get there as close to the train schedule as possible. If you get there within ten minutes of the time it comes, you will find people sitting their in the cars in those spots, staying warm, till the train comes. Twice she had to park in other spots. If they are not going to enforce it, they should get rid of it. The people that are doing this should be ashamed of themselves, and soon there is going to be a confrontation.

Adults?

I would like to say, things that make you go "hmmmm." We try to teach our children to be honest, compassionate and respectful. Check out those candidate ads on T.V. Those so-called "adults" who will be representing the people sure don't set a good example for our kids. Talk about hypocrites. Hmmm.

MINDING YOUR OWN BUSINESS

Don Taylor

Keep your guard up Protecting your business from competition

When new companies enter mature market areas, the most common strategy is to grow their business from the existing customer base. When they want more business in your trade area they will come after your customers to generate sales.

Keeping your guard up is the best way to hold on to your present market share. It also is the foundation for keeping your business strong and growing.

Here are some tips for shoring up your defense. Sometimes in business a good defense can also provide some offense.

Business Armor

- Never ease up. You should expect aggressive competition. Even if you're enjoying a great year, don't relax. Just read your local paper and you'll find a company or chain that is closing or laying off employees. Don't become one of them.

- Don't get too comfortable with your customers. You don't own any customer or even a share of the market. Every day, with every transaction, you must prove your value to your customers. It doesn't matter what you're selling—ideas, products, services, time or knowledge—you can't afford to take your customers for granted.

- Don't get cozy with your operation. There is a certain comfort that comes with routine. If you find yourself resisting change because you're comfortable, look out. When the speed of change outside your business is greater than the speed of change inside, you're already under attack.

- Never stop selling. Sell your quality. Sell your knowledge. Sell your ideas. Sell your skills and expertise. Identify the advantages and benefits you offer your customer and sell those.

- Never assume that all your customers are the same. They aren't. They are individuals. They have different needs, wants and problems. Gather data about your customers. Talk to them regularly. Learn from them daily. Focusing on your customers will pay solid dividends when competitors try to snag some of your market.

- Don't assume that things will be better tomorrow. No, I'm not suggesting that you develop a pessimistic outlook. However, you should realize that your future is not predictable. However, because you can't predict your future, doesn't mean you can't affect it. The decisions you make today are the realities you'll live with tomorrow. Start laying the groundwork for a better future. It won't happen unless you make it happen.

- Don't advertise the lowest price unless you're the lowest-cost provider. Having the cheapest price is not a strong market position. You're vulnerable to anyone else who decides to cut price to grab sales. You can only survive the low-price game if your operation is the most efficient. There are many defunct businesses who undersold everybody.

- Watch your costs. It is seldom the big expenses that bankrupt a firm. It's the little costs that

Six Flags will take riders higher, faster

Roller coaster to be 1999 new attraction

Six Flags' newest attraction when guests visit the theme park in 1999 will be a traditional favorite.

A new roller coaster. "Part of it is coaster sell. You can never have too many roller coasters. That is an axiom in our business. This will be No. 10 for us. There is nothing like roller coasters to drive a business. The competition, more and more, is spending more and more money on roller coasters as well. You have to do it to stay competitive," James Wintode, general manager for Six Flags, said.

The theme park secured necessary variations from village height requirements. The structure will reach heights of 202 feet, 155 feet, 141 feet and 128 feet at four separate segments along the ride. The park's conditional use permit allows structures of 125 feet. Any higher structures need additional permits.

The roller coaster will be located in the Southwest Territory, between the American Eagle and Viper roller coasters.

The maximum height of structures in the park is the Sky Trek Tower, 310 feet.

"It is the crowning piece of the Southwest Territories," Wintode said.

He said new technology means any noise will be oriented to the inside of the theme park. The Mega-coasters, as they are known, have been in theme parks for at least five years.

"More and more people are developing higher and higher coasters. A lot of people just won't ride a roller coaster with a lot of loops. They don't want to go upside down. This will have a much broader appeal."

Wintode addressed the issue of the coming owners, Premiere Parks.

The deal with Time Warner is expected to be finalized at the end of the first quarter.

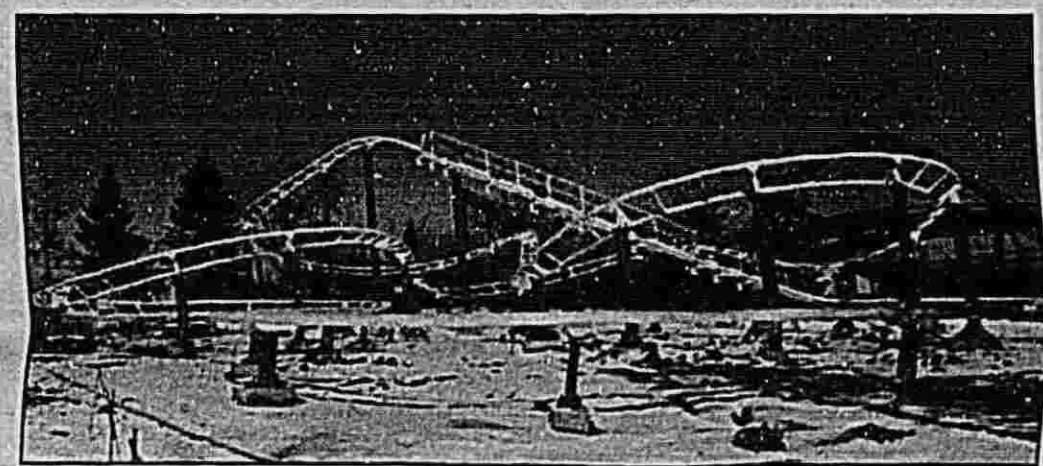

"This is the fourth change in ownership of the parks in 10 years. Each change we keep on going. This should be a good move for us," he told Gurnee trustees.

Later, he mentioned the Gurnee theme park tops the list of 12 Six Flags Theme Parks in a number of areas.

"We are No. 1 in revenues, in innovation—we are the ones that brought 'Batman the Ride.' The kids area we are putting in this year is a new effort for us," said Wintode.

Wintode, a self-described "former bean counter" worked at St. Louis Six Flags park before coming to Gurnee.

Companies often held accountable for sexual harassment

When an employee is found to have committed sexual harassment in the workplace, the employer also bears responsibility and can often suffer substantial loss in the forms of monetary penalties as well as reputation when cases fall under the increasingly intense media spotlight.

Title VII of the Civil Rights Act of 1964 and the Illinois Human Rights Act hold the employer responsible for actions of supervisors who are expected to foster an environment free of such discrimination.

"Seeing large companies pay multimillion dollar fines and the negative press that can result, employers of all sizes now are making concerted effort to reinforce their policies against sexual harassment," according to Lisa R. Callaway, JD, Labor/Employment Counsel for The Management Association of Illinois, an 800-member trade association of employers.

"They are training supervisors to identify sexual harassment, to report it immediately so that an investigation can be conducted, and to take appropriate action to remedy the situation. We've conducted training classes and consulted with management teams thirty companies over the past year," says Callaway.

The most common type of workplace violation is "Hostile environment" harassment when an intimidating, offensive or hostile environment is created due to sexual behavior, pictures, language or looks. The other type is "quid pro quo" or "this for that" harassment; for example, when a supervisor asks for sexual favors in exchange for the employee keeping a job or obtaining a promotion.

The Management Association strongly encourages employers to have a written policy prohibiting sexual harassment and that it be posted in a visible location and placed in the employee handbook.

Employers also should designate at least two people on staff to whom employees can go to register a complaint. These people also should be responsible for investigating alleged policy violations.

"When a charge is made, an immediate investigation is essential," says Callaway. "People tend to forget facts and these things can take on a life of their own, as we've learned in the high profile cases of recent month."

The investigation should include separate interviews with the employee complaining of harassment, the alleged harasser and any witnesses. Questions should cover the basic who, what, when and where of the incident and the investigator should not make assumptions, but look for inconsistencies as the parties tell their stories.

If the allegations are found to be true, the employer should take disciplinary action against the offender that range from a verbal or written warning, required participation in a sexual harassment prevention training class, suspension or termination.

The Management Association of Illinois is a not-for-profit organization dedicated to assisting 800-member employers in the areas of human resources, compensation, labor/employee relations and organization development/training. The Management Association is celebrating its 100th Anniversary this year.

'Slamming, cramming' procedures prompts action by the Senate

Protecting consumers from "slamming" and "cramming" telephone scams highlighted action by the Senate this week, according to state Senator Adeline Geo-Karis (R-Zion).

Attorney General Jim Ryan and several state lawmakers announced plans this week to protect consumers from con artists who use sweepstakes entries and contests to unknowingly switch or change your phone company or phone service features.

"Slamming," a common scam to illegally switch phone service, has become a big problem in Illinois. According to the Attorney General's office, nearly 2,000 slamming complaints were filed last year. "Cramming," or illegally adding service, has also become a problem.

Senate Bill 1567, currently pending in the Senate, aims to give consumers more notice of changes to their telephone service and bans the use of contests to solicit and defraud telephone consumers. Specifically, the measure requires written notice within 72 hours of any change in service. The notice must include a toll free number to allow consumers to cancel any unsolicited services. Consumers would also be able to file complaints with the Illinois Commerce Commission.

Under the proposal, sweepstakes boxes and contests could not be used to switch carriers or provide new services. Any direct mail sweepstakes or contest must clearly state that it is intended to switch or change phone service and must allow a person to enter the contest without altering their phone service.

WAY TO WEALTH

Consideration in financial planning

Financial planning is more important today than it was when our firm, Associates in Financial Planning, started 25 years ago. This milestone provides us with an unique perspective based on experience that we will share with you for when you handle your own investment or work with a financial planning company such as ours.

As individuals we are now more responsible for our financial well being than previous generations. We cannot depend on Social Security and employer retirement plans to assure us of a comfortable retirement.

We are living longer and have to plan for longer retirements and the possibility of protracted expensive long term care.

Despite recent tax changes, more of us have taxable estates and planning for estate tax minimization is thus more important and meaningful. Easy credit has created huge amounts of debt and this impacts personal financial plans and attainment of objectives.

Financial products have become confusingly complex and too numerous to be manageable. More and more of us are starting businesses and need financial guidance and counsel.

As financial planners for a quarter of a century we have a facet of our practice that few others share: experience. We were providing planning services to clients long before "financial planning" became an overused buzzword.

We have seen clients move through the financial (and emotional) stages that we have planned together for children's education's, divorce, grandchildren and deaths. We have helped businesses start, survive and successfully pass to the next generation. We have arbitrated financial conflicts and helped start up businesses that become major corporations.

Cycles

Perhaps the most important aspect of long experience is the ability to understand that cycles are inevitable. We have seen real bear markets. We have seen limited partnerships oversold and cost investors billions of dollars. We have seen real estate values escalate and then plummet. Very few planners have seen any of this.

Cycles are inevitable, despite the recent long run of favorable economic conditions. How we weather cycles will have a significant affect on our financial well being. Our firm offered fee only financial planning long before there was a conflict between fee only and commissions.

As you consider the services of a financial advisor, consider the value of experience. You can be assured of consistent assistance and presence if an experienced planner has planned for continuation of service by adding younger associates.

We are proud of this experience and welcome inquiries about our capabilities. Write us at Associates in Financial Planning, 633 Skokie Blvd., Ste. 308A, Northbrook, IL, 60062 or call us at 509-5090.

Waukegan Savings and Loan introduces new Roth IRA

Changes in the federal tax code effective Jan. 1 have produced another new product for the banking industry known as the Roth IRA. This new way to invest retirement dollars in part reflects the growing concern about the stability of the Social Security system in this country. Always at the forefront of banking products and services, Waukegan Savings and Loan SB has already introduced the Roth IRA for their customers.

"There are several benefits of the Roth IRA that make it an attractive retirement investment," according to Theodore (Ted) Stanulis, president of Waukegan Savings and Loan. "Perhaps the most significant of these is the ability to invest after-tax dollars today, let the investment grow tax-deferred, then withdraw both the principal and interest tax-free. This represents a big change in how interest is treated and offers a great way to earn retirement money."

"Another important benefit is that funds from a Roth IRA can be used by first-time homebuyers," continued Stanulis. "And more Americans are eligible for the Roth IRA because unlike traditional IRA accounts, there is no 70 1/2 age limit on contributions. All that's required is earned income equal to the amount you contribute up to the maximum of $2,000 per person or $4,000 combined for spouses."

There are some conditions and restrictions that accompany the Roth IRA. For example, there are income thresholds which may reduce the amount that may be contributed. But for most people, the Roth IRA will offer an attractive new way to save for their retirement.

For complete information on the new Roth IRA account, contact Ted Stanulis at 623-6400. Waukegan Savings and Loan SB has two locations, 1324 Golf Rd. and 900 Tenth St. The historic thrift has served northeastern Illinois since 1924.

Abbott workers give NICASA's Parent Project high marks

An on-site parent training program offered by the Northern Illinois Council on Alcoholism and Substance Abuse at Abbott Laboratories is observing its 10th anniversary.

Since its inception in 1988, NICASA's award winning Parent Project has received high marks from employees at Abbott Laboratories. They say the course helps them cope with the heavy demands of balancing work and family life. In addition to Abbott, the Parent Project is offered by NICASA at Baxter Healthcare Corp., Motorola and Sears.

"One hundred percent of those who filled out evaluation surveys throughout the 10 years have said they would recommend it to a friend," said Joyce Millman, director of Parent Services. "Many have. For example, husbands who work at Abbott have taken the program after their wives took the course and recommended it to them. This winter the program for parents of children from birth to four years has grown by three people because of others in the group telling them to sign up after the first session."

Millman said 12 percent of participants have registered for more than one program. She said that evaluation of the Parent Project by the University of Illinois has concluded that parents who complete the course:

- Report better relationships with their children.
- Show lower levels of stress.
- Gain greater knowledge and skills in parenting.
- Acquiring higher awareness about drug and alcohol abuse issues.

Millman said that NICASA has been offering the Parent Project at three Abbott sites since 1988. Typically, sessions are held during lunchtime where participants discuss such topics as communication, peer pressure, values, discipline, substance abuse and outside influences.

"The partnership has been very successful, in that we have served 632 participants in 36 groups," Millman said.

In a sampling of 14 groups at Abbott, from fall 1995 through fall 1997, with a total of 110 respondents:

- 82 percent felt the program helped increase their positive feelings about Abbott.
- 78 percent felt the program helped increase their ability to concentrate at work.

The Parent Project was featured at the "Strengthening America's Families" national training conference in March 1997 in Washington, D.C. Sponsored by the U.S. Office of Juvenile Justice and Delinquency Prevention and the University of Utah, the conference showcased more than 20 parenting and family programs.

A national search was conducted by the University of Utah which resulted in the Parent Project being selected as one of the nation's model family-based juvenile delinquency prevention programs.

"The experts who reviewed the entries said the Parent Project is unique in that we bring the program to the work site," Millman said. "Given the demands of working parents' time, we determined it was unrealistic to expect them to go out in the evening to attend parenting classes. In essence, what we're doing is bringing an important prevention program to the people."

Expanded job opportunities forecast for county

A healthy employment pace is predicted this spring for County area. These findings, released today, represent Manpower Inc.'s latest poll of businesses' hiring plans for the second quarter of 1998.

Charles Bartels of Manpower said, "Among companies interviewed for the Employment Outlook Survey, Thirty percent will recruit more workers for April, May and June, ten percent intend to decrease payrolls and fifty-seven percent don't anticipate making any changes. The remainder, three percent, have not finalized their plans." Bartels noted, "In general, employers tend to express a renewed interest in hiring emerging from the slower winter months."

The outlook was weaker heading into spring last year, when sixteen percent predicted adding positions and three percent said they would cut back. Three months ago employers were more reserved, as twenty-three percent foresaw staffing increases, while sixteen percent projected declines.

Employment opportunities appear most promising this spring in non-durable goods manufacturing, wholesale/retail trade, services and public administration. Staff cutbacks are predicted in transportation/public utilities, while mixed readings are reported in construction and durable goods manufacturing.

Nationally, the struggle to find additional workers will continue for at least another three months, as thirty percent of 16,000 participating companies say they will increase employment, five percent plan staff declines, sixty-one percent expect no change and four percent are uncertain.

TAYLOR: Be on your guard

cause problems. These little expenses seldom capture your attention. They are quiet and easily ignored. However if they accumulate, your business will have too much fat to run the race with the swift.

• Become obsessed with quality. "Good enough" is "best's" worst enemy. Your competitors are improving. You must also improve to keep pace. Don't try to improve anything by 50 percent. Instead, look for 50 areas where you can improve one percent. The result is the same. Focus on getting better and bigger will take care of itself.

• Start early. In the great game of business—it's also true in life—you're never penalized for starting early. You don't have to be the smartest or run the fastest if you get an early start.

• Never compromise your character. The toughest competition is honest competition. Customers value integrity. You'll never go wrong by doing the right things. Especially, if you do them well.

Walter was a lifelong Grayslake resident and spent his life following a love of Agriculture. From childhood until his recent passing, Walter lived at the entrance to the College of Lake County. The College sprang from what was once the family farm. Upon graduation from high school, Mr. Krumrey worked for several area farmers and then began a career with the Northern Ill. Breeding Cooperative. Walter was a pioneer for improving the genetics of dairy cattle by choosing select sires that greatly improved milk production in the dairy herds throughout northern Illinois. Walter's career spanned 60 years.

Walter Krumrey volunteered of his time for area organizations like the Lake County Farm Bureau, Lake County Fair Assn., Grayslake Chamber of Commerce, Lake County Convention and Tourism Bureau and the Grayslake Garden Club.

Walter served on the Farm Bureau Board of Directors for 42 years beginning in 1956 and served continuously until the day he died. Only one other director in the Bureau's 83 year history served the organization longer than did Walter. He gave of his time so freely that one would not believe that he was just a volunteer. During his tenure on the board, Walter served and chaired all the various committees and was the corporate Secretary for 30 years. The Prime Timers Club was organized in 1992 and under Walter's leadership developed into one of the finest senior social organizations in the county. He will be missed greatly by this group.

The Lake County Fair was truly the love of Walter's life. During his long tenure on the Board of Directors he served in all the leadership positions. The Lake County Fair would not be what it is today had Walter not given all those years of dedicated service. He even kept the records and files in his home on Washington Street for years prior to the Fair Office being constructed.

The Grayslake Chamber members will miss seeing Walter at the monthly meetings where he always helped raise money with the raffle. The Convention and Tourism Bureau in their early years depended upon Mr. Krumrey for direction and leadership.

Walt, as he was so fondly called by his friend, have a good trip, you will be missed by all your so many friends.

PUBLIC NOTICE
NOTICE OF PUBLIC HEARING
PLANNING & ZONING BOARD VILLAGE OF ANTIOCH

FILE NUMBER: PZB98-03

PETITIONER: Rev. Ronald H. Anglim; St. Peter's Church

OWNER: St. Peter's Church

PROPERTY: Property is commonly known as Saint Peter's Church, 557 Lake Street; is identified on the Lake County Tax Maps as PIN 02-07-403-001, and is legally described as follows: Lot 1 in B.F. Nabers Second Subdivision, a subdivision of part of the Southeast Quarter of Section 7, Township 46 North, Range 10, East of the Third Principal Meridian, according to the Plat thereof, recorded May 16, 1929, in Book "T" of Plats, page 10, as Document 336790, in Lake County, Illinois.

REQUEST: Petitioner is requesting a variation to the Antioch Zoning Ordinance Section 150.072 (E) (2), which requires a fifteen (15) foot corner side yard.

PROPOSAL: Petitioner proposes to construct an elevator running from ground level to church level. The current entrance and stairwell near the southeast corner of the church building encroaches into the required side yard. However, the Church was constructed prior to the zoning ordinance, and therefore the current encroachment is grandfathered. Since the elevator will be new construction, a variation is required. The side yard is approximately two feet at the proposed addition to the southeasterly vestibule. The principal part of the Church building will remain at greater than fifteen (15) feet from the east side property line. A copy of the petition is on file and available for public viewing at the Office of Village Clerk.

DATE: Thursday, April 9, 1998

TIME: 8:00 P.M., (or later depending upon the outcome of earlier agenda items)

PLACE: Board Room, Village Hall,
874 Main Street
Antioch, IL
60002

All persons desiring to appear and be heard thereon for or against said petition may appear at said hearing and be heard.

How To Survive The Job Search
By Nancy Sakol

Dear Search:
I was thrilled to get an interview recently with (name withheld). When I showed up on time for my interview, I was asked by the receptionist to have a seat and to please fill out their application which was quite extensive. I did fill out the essentials, (i.e. name, address, telephone) and then wrote on the top, "SEE RESUME". When I finished with this, I handed it to the receptionist who asked me to please complete the application entirely. I told her that my resume was quite thorough and that all my necessary information could be found within it. She then said that the Human Resources Manager has asked that these be filled out entirely. I explained that there wasn't anything more he could want to know that isn't already on there. The receptionist then brought my resume in to the Manager who came out to tell me that if I was not able to fill out the application, that I should just leave my resume and there would be no need for an interview. Needless to say, I have never heard from them again...What happened A.B.-Libertyville

Dear A.B.:
You didn't do it their way! It may have appeared that because you were unwilling to fill out the application when asked twice, you were inflexible, possibly even argumentative and therefore perhaps not the type of individual they want on board. Keep in mind that a resume does not necessarily tell all. You may think that although you have compiled all of your pertinent information on a sheet of paper, that everyone will interpret it as you yourself see it. Not so. Applications contain information that may delve a bit deeper. Information that may give the interviewer the ability to strike up a conversation which is what you want. Conversation is good. It allows the interviewer to get acquainted with a person instead of a piece of paper. Resumes are easy. They are more of an index. They tell the basics not allowing much room for imagination or information. When on an interview, regardless of whether or not you have a resume in hand...If asked to further fill out an application, do not make it appear beneath you. Instead show them how thorough and flexible you can be. And by the way... When filling out those applications, watch your spelling.
